PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26, 1863.

MESSRS. JONES & EVANS—Gentlemen: I have recently been laboring under the distressing effects of indigestion, accompanied by a prostration of the nervous system. Numerous remedies were recommended by friends, and some of them tested, but without relief. Your Hoofland's German Bitters were recommended by persons who had tried them, and whose favorable mention of the Bitters induced me also to try them. I must confess that I had an aversion to patent medicines, from the "thousand and one" quack "bitters," whose only aim seems to be to palm off sweetened and drugged liquor upon the community, in a sly way; and the tendency of which, I fear, is to make many a confirmed drunkard. Upon learning that yours was really a medicinal preparation, I took it with happy effect. Its action not only upon the stomach, but upon the nervous system, was prompt and gratifying. I feel that I have derived great and permanent benefit from the use of a few bottles. Very respectfully yours,

WASHINGTON, Friday, March 23.

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY OF THE TREASURY.

The following letter was addressed to-day by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, March 23.

DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 22d inst. is received, transmitting to me the following resolution, namely:

Resolved, That a communication be addressed by this Committee to the Secretary of the Treasury, stating that the Committee has received through one of its members information that the Secretary is of opinion that he is, without further legislation, sufficiently armed with power to carry out the policy announced in his late annual report, and to request the Secretary to inform the Committee whether such is his opinion.

In reply I have to say that I must have failed to make myself clearly understood by the honorable member of the Committee, to whom reference is made. I did not intend to say to him that the Secretary is, without further legislation sufficiently armed with power to carry out the policy announced in his late annual report; but I did intend to say to him that if it should be found necessary to modify in any important particular, the provisions of the bill reported by the Committee, I should prefer that it would not become a law. It will be in my opinion a national calamity if Congress shall fail to grant additional powers to the Secretary, for it will be very difficult, if not impossible to fund the interest-bearing notes under existing laws. But I do not desire that the Committee or myself should become in any way responsible for a law that is likely to fail in accomplishing its object. I regard it a matter of the greatest importance that the powers of the Secretary should not be strictly defined. If, for example, the Secretary should be prohibited from selling bonds below par, it would be easy (as the market, in the process of funding, must be liberally supplied) for the enemies of the Government to form successful combinations for keeping the bonds at such a price as would prevent the negotiation of them. On the other hand, if the authority of the Secretary, in this respect, is not limited, no such combinations would be likely to be formed. In my opinion, the best way of keeping the bonds at premium will be to leave the Secretary unrestrained in the sale of them. Against an undefined power it would be difficult to form successful combinations. A limitation of the authority of the Secretary in this respect would be very likely to prevent funding. I do not, therefore, favor such a limitation, and would regret to have the committee responsible for it.

In regard to the other important feature of the bill, the authority to withdraw United States notes, I have merely to remark that I conceive it to be of vast importance to the business of the country, the welfare of the people and the credit of the nation, that such a financial policy should be adopted by this Congress as will prepare the way for a return to specie payment. When this can be brought about, will depend upon the condition of national industry and the trade relations between the United States and foreign nations. It is not desirable that specie payments should be restored until that restoration can be made permanent by increased industry and a proper adjustment of the trade with Europe. The tendencies now are all in the right direction; and if they shall be adjusted by judicious legislation, I shall be hopeful that the currency of the country may be brought up to the specie standard without a larger reduction of it. The apprehension which exists that if power is given to the Secretary to retire United States notes, the circulation of the country will be ruinously contracted, is without any substantial foundation. If no reliance can be placed upon the discretion and carefulness of the Secretary, the very condition of the finances of the country will prevent such a reduction of the currency, or will make either a light money market or depress business. Authority to reduce the currency will go very far to prevent the necessity for a reduction. The battle will be more than half fought when the Government shall adopt a healthy financial policy.

I am, very truly, your obedient servant,

HUGH McCULLOCH,
Secretary of the Treasury.

To Hon. JUSTIN S. MORRILL, Chairman Committee Ways and Means, House of Representatives.

THE LOAN BILL.

The passage of the Loan Bill, in its amended shape, by the House should not be construed as a triumph of Secretary MCCULLOCH. On the contrary, so far as it concerns the power to contract the greenbacks, it may be considered as much his defeat as was the defeat of the original bill. I have the highest authority for saying that he so regards it himself. The proposition with regard to funding, which finally passed, was the compromise of the Committee, which the majority of the House accepted for these reasons, viz: Because it recognized the principle of contraction and yet did not interfere with the greenbacks to an extent that would derange business; because it was better than nothing even if it did not satisfy the Secretary, and because the hard money men argued it was a step, be it ever so small, toward specie payments. These reasons prevailed with a majority of the House. The minority, among whom was Mr. STEVENS and some of the extreme radicals, voted against it, because they do not believe in contraction. They argue that we are on the high road to specie payments now, and that point will soon be reached without contraction, and they opposed it also because they don't believe in giving the Secretary any power beyond that already conferred by existing laws, which every one admits is very vague and uncertain. The only feature which meets the Secretary's views in the bill as passed is that which does not restrict him to the par limit in selling the bonds, that is due to the earnest action of Mr. MORRILL. Mr. ALLISON, with equal earnestness, sought to insert that limit, but was voted down—ayes fifty-nine, nays seventy-three. Mr. HOOPER'S substitute, which embodied the same limit, with the additional prohibition of funding the Greenbacks until all the interest-bearing short-date obligations were out of the way; and which, also, reduced the rate of interest on temporary loans to five per cent. making it the strongest proposition that could come from that side, was also voted down, six yeas to seventy-four nayes. The amendments of the Committee were then adopted, and the bill passed under a call of the roll; yeas eighty-three, nays fifty-three. A much larger majority than was expected, quite a number of gentlemen roping in at the last moment, rather than rest under the suspicion of being opposed to specie payments. The prospect of the bill in the Senate is fair, as it embodies very nearly the idea of Senator SHERMAN'S joint resolutions of last week in favor of gradual contraction.

The following is the Loan Bill as it passed the House to-day:

Be it enacted, &c., That the act entitled "An act to provide ways and means to support the Government," approved March 3, 1865, shall be extended and construed to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury at his discretion to receive any Treasury notes or other obligations issued under any act of Congress, whether bearing interest or not, in exchange for any description of bonds authorized by the act to which this is an amendment, and also to dispose of any description of bonds authorized by said act either in the United States or elsewhere, to such an amount, in such manner and at such rate as he may think advisable for lawful money of the United States or for any Treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness, or certificates of deposit, or other representatives of value, which have been or may be issued under any act of Congress, the proceeds thereof to be used only for retiring treasury notes or other obligations issued under any act of Congress, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize any increase of the public debt; Provided that of United States notes not more than ten millions of dollars may be retired and cancelled within six months from the passage of this act, and thereafter not more than four millions of dollars in any one month, and provided the bonds which may be disposed of elsewhere than in the United States, may be made payable, both principal and interest, in the coin or currency of the country in which they are made payable, that shall not bear a rate of interest exceeding five per centum per annum; and provides further that the act to which this is an amendment shall continue in full force in all provisions except as modified by this act.

SEC. 2. That the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress at the commencement of the next session the amount of exchanges made or money borrowed under this act, and of whom and on what terms, and also the amount and character of indebtedness retired under this act, and the act to which this is an amendment, with a detailed statement of the expense of making such loans and exchanges.

THE NEW-JERSEY SENATOR.

This afternoon's session of the Senate was unusually interesting, and at its conclusion became quite exciting. At 1 o'clock the New-Jersey contested election came up, and occupied the Senate until near 5 o'clock. During this period Senators Howe, Hendricks, Clark, Cowan, Sumner and Trumbull, several argued the legal questions involved; Mr. TRUMBULL making one of the most compact, able arguments that has been heard in the Senate Chamber for some days. He reviewed the various objections raised by Messrs. FESSENDEN and CLARK to the report of the Committee recommending that Mr. STOCKTON be declared entitled to his seat as Senator from New-Jersey. He declared that these gentlemen had excluded from the discussion with settled principles of the law and had even misapprehended the common law. He proceeded to show that the plurality rule in the election of officers was derived from England, from whence we get our common law and parliamentary rules, and that our members of the House of Representatives are generally chosen upon that principle. The debate became intensely exciting at one time, when Mr. TRUMBULL bore heavily upon the positions taken by Mr. FESSENDEN, who was unable to receive the attack quietly, and lost his temper, an unusual occurrence for that notoriously calm, self-possessed Senator. An industrious canvass of the Senatorial votes was kept up throughout the session, and on comparison of votes just before the vote was taken, the opponents to the admission of Mr. STOCKTON believed they had a majority of two. The first vote was upon the amendment of Mr. CLARK, viz.: that Mr. STOCKTON is not duly elected, etc. The result was 19 for and 21 against the amendment, and it was declared lost. Mr. MORRILL did not respond to his name on this call on the eyes and noes, nor did Mr. STOCKTON, and Mr. WILSON was temporarily absent from the Senate Chamber. The question was then upon the adoption of the resolution of the Committee, viz., that JOHN P. STOCKTON was duly elected and is entitled to his seat as Senator. The result of this vote was 22 for and 21 against the adoption of the resolution—those who voted in the negative before, now voting in the affirmative, and vice versa, and the affirmative being augmented by the vote of Mr. STOCKTON, while the other side was increased by the vote of Messrs. MORRILL and WILSON. In this, as in the first instance, neither Mr. MORRILL nor Mr. STOCKTON responded to their names on the call of the ayes and noes; but just as the President was about to declare the result, Mr. MORRILL rose and asked that his vote be recorded in the negative. This made the vote a tie—21 to 21. Mr. STOCKTON now rose, holding in his hand a paper, which he said was a telegram from his colleague, Mr. WRIGHT, informing him that he (Mr. WRIGHT) and Mr. MORRILL had paired off. Mr. STOCKTON expressed surprise therefore that Mr. MORRILL should have recorded his vote in this case. Mr. MORRILL explained that he had given somebody notice a few days ago that the agreement with Mr. WRIGHT was at an end. Thereupon Mr. STOCKTON asked that his name be called, which was done, and he voted in the affirmative thus swelling the ayes to twenty-two and giving him his seat as Senator from New Jerser. Hereupon quite a commotion arose. Some of the Senators put their heads together and consulted earnestly, apparently, upon the right of the Senator to vote in his own behalf. Mr. NYE ventured a suggestion that it was questionable whether Mr. STOCKTON could vote. The President declared Mr. STOCKTON could vote, and announced that the resolution of the Committee was adopted.

AFRICANS IN SENATE GALLERY.

An effort is to be made in the Senate to classify the auditors who visit the galleries. Reserved seats for the Members of Congress and their wives and families are demanded by some of the better-halves of Senators, whose olfactories are offended by the African aroma. Besides, even when the colored population are kept separate from white folks, it is found that the cannaille, or common people, mix up among the Senatorial families, so that it is difficult to distinguish the commonality from the aristocracy. The ladies complain, and the Senators therefore request the Sergeant-at-arms to classify folks, but that officer don't feel authorized to comply with the request, so says Senator RIDDLE, who offered a resolution to-day, directing a place to be set apart for the distingué. Somebody objected to the present consideration of the subject, and the resolution goes over until Monday.

PROMOTION.

Brig.-Gen. BENJ. H. GRIERSON, of Illinois, has been promoted to the rank of Major-General, for gallant and meritorious services during the war. His commission dates from May 27, 1865. It is announced that he will be stationed in the West.

PRESIDENTIAL RECEPTIONS.

The first of the regular receptions of the President this season, takes place on Monday next. Mr. JOHNSON has heretofore withstood the pressure upon him to give Presidential levees, and the ladies of his family in lieu thereof, received company on Tuesday evenings and Friday afternoons. Mr. JOHNSON appearing at these receptions only now and then for a few moments. Next Monday evening the levee will be given by the President himself, after the custom of Mr. LINCOLN and some of his predecessors.

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

The air has been thick with rumors all day that the President has decided to veto the Civil Rights Bill, or at least return it with his objections, among which, this same busy rumor says, are an objection to the second section, which makes State Courts and their officers accountable to United States Courts on purely State Rights questions; and an objection to the third section, which invests the officers of the Freedmen's Bureau with constabulary functions. Rumor also says that the bill will simply be returned with a message approving its principles but pointing out these objections. It is hoped in some quarters quite friendly to the President, that he will allow the bill to become a law by failing to approve it within the required time, and thus give an early opportunity for bringing it before the Supreme Court for the purpose of testing the question of its constitutionality. One thing is certain, the bill has not been considered in the Cabinet yet, and the usual cabinet meeting was not held to-day.

GEN. SPINNER AND MR. FREEMAN CLARKE.

Much astonishment has been created here by the reception of a telegram from Chicago stating that dispatches from Washington are published in the Western papers, saying that Gen. SPINNER'S recent letter maintains the correctness of FREEMAN CLARK'S financial statements, controverting the position of the Secretary of the Treasury. So far from this being true, Gen. SPINNER'S effort was in the opposite direction, and in answer to Mr. CLARK.

GEN. LEE'S TESTIMONY.

The report of the Committee on Reconstruction giving the testimony of Gen. LEE and others about the condition of Virginia, is still delayed by the absence of Senator HOWE, who is especially connected with that branch of the investigation.

THE DUTIES ON WOOL.

The presence here of Hon. Mr. RANDALL, of New-York, President of the National Wool-Growers' Association, is in the interest of an increased tariff on foreign wool. Mr. WARD, of New-York, to-day presented an armful of petitions to that end from the patriotic wool-growers of Steuben and Allegany Counties.

MISUNDERSTANDING.

Some of the papers, both here and elsewhere, are commenting on the provisions of the Civil Rights Bill, under a very serious misapprehension. The section which gave court commissions concurrent jurisdiction with Judges of the United States District and Circuit Courts, and which was very like a similar provision in the odious Fugitive Slave Act, was stricken out in the House, and the Senate concurred in the amendment. So were several other features of a doubtful character, and the civil rights guaranteed by the bill, instead of being left in general terms, were positively defined. The act, as published in the TIMES of Friday, March 16, was just as it passed.

CONNECTICUT POLITICS.

Senator WILSON, of Massachusetts, Senator FOWLER and Representative STOKES, of Tennessee, have gone to Connecticut to make brief campaigns for the Union ticket.

PERSONAL.

The physician report the condition of Senator FOOT to be much improved, with fair prospects of an early recovery of health.

Senator DIXON, although not considered entirely out of danger, seems to be convalescent.

THE CATTLE PLAGUE IN ENGLAND.

The United States Consul at Sheffield, England, writes to the Department of State, under date of March 6, 1866, that the steady increase of mortality among the cattle is creating a serious alarm. It has now extended to the sheep, which is a proof of its contagious character.

ANXIOUS TO LEARN FRENCH.

There are already at least 500 applicants for appointments as United States Commissioner to the Paris Exposition of 1867, many of them parties interested in machines and implements which are to be on exhibition, and not one in twenty able to understand or speak a word of the French language.

IMMIGRATION FROM ENGLAND.

The United States Consul at Liverpool informs the State Department by letter, dated March 9, 1866, that all the steamers and emigrant ships leaving that port for the United States are filled with emigrants. Ship-owners and others say that the emigration to the United States will be enormous, and the indications are that it will be greater this year than at any other time since we have been a nation.

DEATH OF AN INDIAN CHIEF.

Another member of the Chippewa Indian delegation died here yesterday of the black measles, of which disease the Chief and another of the tribe died during the present week. Two others are sick with the same complaint, but are pronounced out of danger.

THE GOVERNORSHIP OF IDAHO.

The President nominated to the Senate, several days ago, DAVID W. BALLARD, of Oregon, to be Governor of Idaho Territory in place of CALEB LYON.

THE TAX ON INCOME.

The Ways and Means Committee have agreed to let the exemption of tax on income stand as it now is at six hundred dollars, adding fifty dollars to the exemption for every child in a family, up to fifteen in number.

RELIEF FOR NAVAL CONTRACTORS.

To-day, Senator NYE'S bill, introduced for the relief of certain contractors for the construction of vessels of war and steam machinery, appropriates to Mr. Sarrubee, upon the Iasco, $11,709; to Mr. G. W. Lawrence, upon the Agawam and Pontoosuc, $17,221; to Messrs. Curtis & Tilden, upon the Massassoit and Osceola, $8,257; to Mr. Paul Curtis, upon the Chicopee, $4,128; to Messrs. A. and G. S. Sampson, upon the Mattalesset, $4,015; to Mr. J. Limenson, $16,441; to Mr. Edward Seepton, $18,576; to Mr. F. C. Senebrer, $14,473; to D. S. Mershen, $11,500; to Messrs. S. H. and W. M. Craulp, $3,800; to Mr. J. J. Abraham, $12,576; to Messrs. Willman and Stoeaker, $5,041; to the Globe Works of South Boston, $59,577; to the Portland Locomotive Words, $80,867; to the Allaire Works, $50,238; to the Neptune Iron Works, $40,663; to George W. Quintard, of Morgan Iron Works at New-York, $51,652; to James Murphy and Company, $22,386; to South Brooklyn Steam Engine Works, $61,235; to the Washington Works, $29,161; to Pasey, Jones & Co., $11,624; to Neafie & Sevy, $22,434; to Pool & Hunt, $44,015; to the Atlantic Works, East Boston, $41,027; to John Roach, Ætna Iron Works, $61,752; to Gardener & Locke, $31,325; to Reany, Son & Archibald, $95,304; to F. F. Rowland, $82,460; to Harrison Loring, $63,715; to Zeno Secor & Co., $113,543; to the Novelty Iron Works, $35,832; to Pasey, Jones & Co., $4,793; to William Perrine, $96,059; to James B. Eads, $59,613; to W. Quintard, $85,203; to Z. & F. Secor, $238,041; to W. Perrine and Z. F. Secor, $119,020; to Alexander Swift & Co., $228,019; to Snowden & Mason, $71,569; to William Perrine, $36,533; to Donahue, Ryan & Secor, $179,993.

A GOOD MOVE AT LAST.

Both branches of Congress have now determined that their Halls shall only be used for the legitimate purposes of legislative deliberations. Some weeks ago the House, by a decided vote, refused to give the use of the Hall for society celebrations, and to-day the Senate, upon application of Mrs. M. C. WELLING, a Texas refugee, for the use of the Senate Chamber for a lecture on Tuesday evening next, refused to entertain her motion, the Senators generally expressing their disapproval of granting such privileges.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

The Secretary of the Treasury has received the following letter:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, March 23, 1866.

SIR: I am directed by the Secretary of War to transmit herewith a letter postmarked March 22, addressed to this department, over the signature of "A Union Loving Woman," and inclosing the sum of $44 to be appropriated to the payment of the national debt. I have the honor to be your obedient servant,

THOMAS J. ECKERT,
Acting Assistant Secretary of War.

ROCK ISLAND, ILL.

The Chair laid before the Senate the report of the Secretary of War, communicating, in obedience to a resolution of the Senate of the 9th instant, information in relation to the legislation necessary to fix and establish the position of the Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, at Rock Island, Ill., so as to enable the War Department to occupy said island for military purposes.

The Secretary transmits the report of Major-Gen. A. B. DYER, Chief of Ordnance, on the matter.

Gen. DYER says that it is thought that the present position of the railroad on Rock Island is without authority of law, and is held merely on sufferance. It is not such as to accord with the purposes of the Government in occupying the island for military purposes, but may be made so by fixing the position of the road on the lower end of the island, and establishing wagon-roads across each bridge, open to the Government at all times for the transportation of material and the passage of persons in Government employ, to or from the island, free of charge, in consideration of which a permanent right of way may be granted to the Railroad Company, and such other aid from the Government as may be deemed fair and equitable. The new location of the railroad, with the extent of ground to be occupied, to be subject to the decision of the Secretary of War.

Gen. DYER states that the possession of the small antiguous islands, known as Benham's Wilson's and Winnebago Islands, are necessary to carry out the military purposes of the act of April 19, 1864, and states that all the additional legislation necessary will be to extend the provisions of the act so as to include them.

The claims for property on these islands amount to two hundred and ninety-three thousand, six hundred dollars, which will be subject to examination by a Board of Commissioners. The amount necessary to secure water-power at the head of Rock Island, will be one hundred thousand dollars.

Gen. DYER concludes by submitting the sketch of an act such as is contemplated by the resolution.

The report and accompanying papers were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

SOUTHWESTERN RAILROADS.

Mr. POMEROY introduced a bill to revise and extend the provisions of an act granting the right of way and making a grant of land to the States of Arkansas and Missouri, to aid in the construction of a railroad from a point upon the Mississippi, opposite the mouth of the Ohio River via Little Rock, to the Zexas, near Fulton, in Arkansas, with branches to Fort Smith and the Mississippi River, approved February 19, 1853, and for other purposes, which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

PREVENTION OF SMUGGLING.

Mr. CHANDLER introduced a bill to prevent smuggling and for other purposes.

It provides that the term vessel shall be held to include every description of water-craft capable of being used as a means or auxiliary of transportation on or by water; and the term "vehicle" shall be held to include every description of carriage, wagon, &c., used or capable of being used as a means or auxiliary of transportation on land.

SEC. 2—Provides that any officer of the Customs shall have the power to go on board of any vessel, either in or out of his district, and examine the same, and any person or package, of any kind, on board, and to stop such vessel if under way, using force if necessary, and to seize any goods liable to forfeiture by any heads of the laws.

SEC. 3—Provides that any vehicle, beast or person, on whom goods, subject to duty, or introduced into the United States contrary to law, are suspected to be, may be stopped by the officers and searched; and if such articles are found they shall be subject to seizure and forfeiture; and any person in charge of the same, who shall refuse to stop when ordered by any authorized officer, shall, upon conviction, be fined, not exceeding one thousand dollars, nor less than fifty dollars; and the Secretary of the Treasury may, from time to time, appoint female inspectors for the examination and search of persons of their own sex.

SEC. 4—Provides that any person importing goods contrary to law, or receiving and concealing the same, shall be fined, on conviction, not exceeding five thousand nor less than fifty dollars, or be imprisoned not exceeding two years, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

THE NEW-JERSEY CONTESTED ELECTION CASE.

At the expiration of the morning hour the case of Mr. STOCKTON, Senator from New-Jersey, was taken up.

Mr. HOWE addressed the Senate. Whatever may be the decision of the Senate, said he, it cannot affect the personal or political character of the Senator, Mr. STOCKTON. He has already a decision in his favor pronounced by a Committee of this body composed of a large majority of his political opponents, embracing some of the best, if not the best legal talent in the Senate. If, therefore, the Senate decide not to admit his claims to a seat here, there can be no party advantage derived to the party in the majority. The only way possible for the majority to take advantage by the decision of this question, is by indicating exactly the law of the land, and vindicating what is positively, abstractly and legally right to be done. So far as I have examined the question at all, I have examined it in its reference to the law to see what is the law of the case, and if I were very certain that my conclusions were correct, I should feel bound to abide by the report of the Committee which has investigated and reported upon the question; but it does not seem to me that there were two questions, which if put to the Senate one after the other, would have no diversity of opinion upon either among the members of the Senate. It does seem to me that if I asked the Senate whether the vote given in that joint convention for the present Senator from New-Jersey, would have elected him under the laws of that State in case there had been no rules of the joint convention pronounced. I think every member of the Senate will say no, certainly not. If that joint convention had never declared by rule that a plurality of the votes given should constitute an election, and the convention had given precisely the vote they had given on this occasion, viz., 40 votes for the Senator from New-Jersey, and 41 votes against the Senator from New-Jersey, I do not think there is a single Senator on this floor but would have said at once: Of course he cannot have been elected by any such vote as that. Why? Simply because four votes cannot overturn forty-one; a minority cannot control a majority in the absence of a rule giving them authority to do so. But if I put the other question to the Senate, whether a joint convention of the Houses of the Legislature can by any rule repeal, or modify, or change a law of the State, I think every Senator will say at once, certainly not. The two Houses in joint convention cannot make a law, repeal a law, modify a law or change a law. That would be the judgment of every Senator here. Upon that single question you will decide advisedly. Then, if these two questions are put separately, and answered in that way in the negative, how happens it that both of them are overruled when we come to consider the effect of them together? Mr. HOWE argued that the joint convention had not legislative powers, and that it had no right to adopt a rule for the election of the plurality candidate.

Mr. FESSENDEN asked if the Legislature had prescribed a majority rule for the government of the convention, could the convention have set it aside and adopted a plurality rule.

Mr. STOCKTON said it was his opinion that it could not; but the failure of the Legislature to prescribe rules left the convention free to adopt its own rules.

Mr. FESSENDEN said that if, as was claimed by some Senators, the joint convention was the Legislature, and had legislative power, it had a right to repeal a law as well as make one.

Mr. HENDRICKS spoke in favor of retaining Mr. STOCKTON. When the question was before the Judiciary Committee, he (Mr. HENDRICKS) was very confident that the sitting member was entitled to his seat, and he had since seen no reason to abandon that opinion. Upon the question of fact there was no difference of opinion, and there could be none. The election took place in a joint meeting of the two Houses of the Legislature of New-Jersey. That election took place pursuant to a resolution adopted by that joint meeting. He (Mr. HENDRICKS) was very clearly of opinion that that joint meeting had the power to pass the resolution which it did adopt. It was not necessary to discuss whether that Convention could, by any regulation or rule, depart from a rule prescribed by the two Houses acting separately, for that question was not involved. The Legislature, acting in its separate branches, did not undertake to prescribe the rules which should govern the election; it simply declared that the election should take place in a joint meeting of the two Houses, and, as to the mode of proceeding in that joint meeting, the Legislature adopted no rule as law; and the question, in his mind was simply whether the joint meeting had the power to prescribe the rules and elect in the mode in which it did elect. Mr. HENDRICKS continued his remarks in advocacy of the right of the joint convention to prescribe rules for its own government.

Mr. CLARK proceeded to apply the argument of Mr. JOHNSON, made yesterday, in which he (JOHNSON) charged that the attempt to oust Mr. STOCKTON was an unconstitutional invasion of the rights of the people of New Jersey. He (CLARK) maintained that the Senate had a perfect right to investigate the circumstances attending the election of any one claiming a seat in the Senate. It was a right derived from the Constitution, and when it was stated that Mr. STOCKTON came here against the will of a majority of the New-Jersey Legislature, against the will of a majority of each House of that Legislature, the Senate of the United States was not to be told that it was a violation of the constitutional right of New-Jersey, to investigate and decide upon the matter.

Mr. CRAGIN took the ground that the majority rule alone should prevail in the absence of positive law for a plurality rule. By the old law of 1794, a majority was required to elect, and that law had never been changed.

Mr. STOCKTON replied to Mr. CRAGIN that the law under which his election was held was altogether different from the law of 1794. He read from the laws of 1845, under which he was elected, giving the joint convention the right to prescribe rules for its own government. The proposition now is that the Senate of the United States shall undo the rules by which the joint meeting of the Legislature of New-Jersey take the sense of that body. The whole case is this, and there are men, clear minded men, and lawyers, who will review this hereafter. There are men whom fallacies cannot blind. These men will not examine it, or argue in their minds and in their judgment, with any very nice hair-splitting technicalities. There are men who honestly and firmly will look upon the decision in this Senate without any respect of party or anything else, and they will see that we decide that the Legislature of New-Jersey is the proper body to determine how it will take the sense of the body, and not the Congress or the Senate of the United States.

Mr. CONNESS read the rules which govern the Joint Convention of the California Legislature, and spoke briefly of the necessity of a majority vote to elect.

Mr. COWAN sustained the report of the Judiciary Committee. The plurality rule was adopted by a majority of the Joint Convention, and the action of that Convention was the action of the Legislature.

Mr. TRUMBULL said that, as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee who made the report before the Senate, coming to the conclusion that Mr. STOCKTON was entitled to his seat, and having arrived at the conclusion, after as careful an investigation of the question as he and those associated with him were capable of, he considered it incumbent upon him to state, after this somewhat protracted debate, the considerations by which they were governed in coming to that decision. In doing so, the only object he had, the only object he supposed any one had, was that the law of the question might be properly settled. It is purely a legal question, submitted to the Senate as Judges. My only desire is that the Senate shall not make an erroneous decision in so important a matter as the representation of the States here, or the right of a member to his seat. The Constitution of the United States provides that the Senate shall consist of two members from each State, to be chosen by the Legislatures thereof. The question is, what is the Legislature? By some it is supposed that it is that body acting in the same capacity as it acts in the enactment of laws for the State. But, sir, a different construction has prevailed, and it has been settled by precedents from the formation of the Government that the word "legislature" used here in the Constitution, is a description of the body that is to make this election. It makes the election by a separate vote of each house, a vote of the two Houses concurring; or the members of both Houses may assemble together and make the election. The latter is the more general practice throughout the United States. Very few, or considerably less than half, of the States at this time elect by the concurrent action of the two Houses. Mr. TRUMBULL here read from STORY on this question, and continued: It being admitted that the Legislature named in the Constitution of the United States is the General Assembly of both bodies, and that that joint Assembly, when met, has authority to elect, it matters not, in that body, whether the successful candidate received single vote of one of the bodie; if he obtains votes enough from the other, he is legally elected. For instance: In the State of New-Jersey they have a General Assembly, as it is called, of sixty members of the House and twenty-one of the Senate. Nobody will question that when met together for the purpose of electing a United States Senator, if forty-one of the members of the House of Representatives had voted for a particular candidate and every Senator and the balance of the House of Representatives had voted against him, he would have been elected. So that the two bodies are merged into one when they meet. Then this mode of election is a proper one by the joint convention.

Mr. TRUMBULL then referred to the legal authority given to the joint convention to prescribe its own rules. It had done so from time immemorial—it had been so since 1794, and it had a right to prescribe the plurality rule. Most of the members of the other House were then chosen by a plurality vote. The common law of England was that in all elections in which the elections were not restricted to a certain number of candidates a plurality vote elected.

Mr. SUMNER said there were two kinds of elections in England. In popular elections a plurality vote elected; but in corporations or elections by corporated bodies it required a majority.

Mr. YATES desired to ask Mr. TRUMBULL a question: He desired to know whether there was an instance in which a person, who had not received a majority of votes, had been declared Senator?

Mr. TRUMBULL said he did not know.

Mr. YATES asked whether, if a proposition for the election of Senators was pending in the Illinois Legislature, it would be right to receive a Senator in this body who had not received a majority of the votes? He would ask another question. His colleague (Mr. TRUMBULL) had asserted that a majority of the New-Jersey Legislature, which was forty-one, was sufficient to conduct an election for Senators, and that a majority of forty-one, which is tweaty-one, would, therefore, be sufficient to elect. He (Mr. YATES) would admit this, but his colleague (Mr. TRUMBULL) had taken the ground that if there were several candidates, and the votes were so distributed as to give the highest candidate but five votes, the candidate receiving five votes would be duly elected.

Mr. TRUMBULL said his colleague had selected an extreme case.

Mr. YATES said he contended that this was a Government of majorities, and that majorities alone could elect.

Mr. TRUMBULL asked his colleague if he did not know that every member of the other House is elected by a plurality. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes is elected.

Mr. YATES said he admitted the right of a plurality to elect where it was so provided by law.

Mr. TRUMBULL said that in admitting that much his colleague had answered his own question. The rule of the Convention was a law.

At the conclusion of Mr. TRUMBULL'S remarks, Mr. SUMNER spoke of the necessity of a majority vote to make a valid election, and quoted precedents from ancient and modern history to establish his position.

The question was taken, at the conclusion of Mr. SUMNER'S remarks, on Mr. CLARK'S amendment, to insert the word "not" in two places in the resolution reported by the Judiciary Committee, so as to make it read:

Resolved, That JOHN P. STOCKTON was not duly elected, and is not entitled to his seat as a Senator from New-Jersey for the term of five years from the 4th of March, 1865.

The yeas and nays were demanded by Mr. HENDRICKS on the adoption of the above amendment, and the amendment was disagreed to, yeas, 19, nays 21.

YEAS—Messrs. Brown, Chandler, Clark, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Fessenden, Grimes, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane of Indiana, Nye, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner, Wade, Yates—19.

NAYS—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Foster, Guthrie, Harris, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, Lane of Kansas, McDougal, Morgan, Nesmith, Norton, Poland, Riddle, Saulsbury, Stewart, Trumbull, Willey—21.

ABSENT, OR NOT VOTING—Messrs. Dixon, Doolittle, Foot, Howard, Morrill, Stockton, Van Winkle, Williams, Wilson, Wright—10.

Mr. STEWART stated that Mr. DOOLITTLE had paired with Mr. WILLIAMS, and Mr. VAN WINKLE had paired with Mr. HOWARD.

The announcement of so close a vote created great excitement on the floor and in the galleries. Mr. SUMNER uttered in an audible voice, "Where is WILSON? Send for WILSON," &c., and there was much confusion on both sides of the chamber.

The Chair announced the vote, and said the amendment was not adopted, and the question was upon the resolution as reported by the Committee.

The vote was then taken on the resolution given above without the word "not," proposed by Mr. CLARKE'S amendment, the result was as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Foster, Guthrie, Harris, Hendricks, Henderson, Johnson, Lane of Kansas, McDougall, Morgan, Nesmith, Norton, Poland, Riddle, Saulsbury, Stewart, Trumbull, Willey—21.

NAYS—Messrs. Brown, Chandler, Clark, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Fessenden, Grimes, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane of Indiana, Nye, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner, Wade, Wilson, Yates—20.

Before the above vote was announced the confusion increased on the floor.

Mr. SUMNER called loudly to Mr. MORRILL to vote, and Mr. MORRILL recorded his vote in the negative.

Mr. STOCKTON then rose and said he held in his hand a dispatch from his colleague Mr. WRIGHT, stating that he (WRIGHT) had paired with Mr. MORRILL, and that he would not have gone home if he had not been able to do so on this question. A day or two since Mr. MORRILL came to him (STOCKTON) and told him he would be compelled to vote on this question, and asked him to notify Mr. WRIGHT to that effect, but it was too late for him to arrive here to vote. Believing Mr. MORRILL to have violated the agreement between him (MORRILL) and his colleague, he would ask the Clerk to call his (STOCKTON'S) name.

Mr. STOCKTON'S name was called, and he voted in the affirmative. This left the vote 22 yeas against 21 nays.

Several Senators—You can't vote in your own case.

Several other Senators—He has as good a right to vote as MORRILL has.

Mr. MORRILL rose to make an explanation. He remarked that what Mr. STOCKTON had said was substantially correct. It was true he had paired off with Mr. WRIGHT. But on Wednesday evening he informed Mr. STOCKTON that he would feel constrained to vote on this question, and he then suggested to Mr. STOCKTON to notify Mr. WRIGHT of this fact. Such a length of time had elapsed since he paired that he did not feel bound by it.

The remark was again made by several Senators in an undertone, "A man can't vote for himself in such a case."

Mr. SUMNER, among others, was heard in the galleries to say, very excitedly, "It is a part of the law of nations that a man shall not vote in his own case."

Mr. NYE, addressing the Chair, said it was proper for him, being a new member, to inquire whether a member is entitled to vote in his own case, as had just been done.

Mr. FOSTER, in the chair, said there was no rule on the subject. Mr. STOCKTON'S name was upon the roll, and until the Senate decided to remove it it must be called with other names.

The Chair then announced the vote on the adoption of the resolution, declaring that Mr. STOCKTON was duly elected, and is entitled to his seat, to be yeas 22, nays 21.

So the resolution was adopted.

Mr. CRESSWELL moved that when the Senate adjourn, it adjourn to meet on Monday next. Adopted.

The Senate then adjourned till Monday.

FRIDAY, March 23—P. M.

The official Custom-house returns of the Foreign Trade at the port of New-York for the month of January have just been rendered. They enable us to bring forward our tables in an official shape for seven months of the current fiscal year, in comparison with the same period the previous fiscal year. The semi-official weekly figures, reported from the statistical bureau of the Custom-house since the 31st of January, will be added, to the close of the present week, in our usual Monday's review.

The Import entries for January at New-York compare as follows with the corresponding month of the previous year, viz.:

| | Jan. 1866. | Jan. 1865. |
|---|---|---|
| Dutiable goods direct | $18,556,726 | $5,217,495 |
| Dutiable bonded | 10,241,576 | 4,510,225 |
| Free goods | 1,238,757 | 840,129 |
| Total January entries | $30,037,059 | $10,567,849 |

There was also entered during the month foreign specie of the value of $72,771, as against $52,268 same month in 1865. The value of foreign merchandise of previous importation withdrawn from bond is $7,424,385, or $2,817,191 less than went into bond during the month. So hat the amount of merchandise actually marketed during the month, dutiable and free, is $27,219,868, on which the gold customs collected amount to $12,437,474, or at an average rate of duty on all the marketed imports, (including free articles,) of 45¾ ⅌ cent. The amount marketed in January, 1865, was $11,711,178, and the customs, $4,231,737.

The comparative value of foreign goods entered at the port of New-York, and of foreign goods actually marketed for the seven months of the current Fiscal Year are as follows:

| | 1865-6. July 1 to Jan. 31. | 1864-5. July 1 to Jan. 31. |
|---|---|---|
| Total entries | $171,695,968 | $89,496,462 |
| Total marketed | $161,846,352 | $80,912,829 |
| Customs paid | 77,514,803 | 28,705,640 |
| Average duty | 48 ⅌ cent. | 35½ ⅌ cent. |

In addition to the above there was entered during seven months, Foreign Gold and Silver of the value of $1,144,229, as against $890,876 in 1865.

Since the beginning of the current fiscal year, July 1, 1865, to the close of January, the consumption of foreign goods through the port of New-York, compares as follows, as between a condition of peace this season and of war last season:

FOREIGN GOODS MARKETED AT NEW-YORK.

| | 1865-'6. Peace. | 1864-'5. War. |

| September | 25,586,747 | 12,075,000 |
| October | 21,852,068 | 10,159,743 |
| November | 22,064,390 | 10,104,219 |
| December | 19,047,205 | 10,670,234 |
| January | 27,219,868 | 11,711,178 |
| Total seven months | $161,846,352 | $80,912,829 |

| Miscellaneous Customs | | | 672,061 |
| Total deposited in N. Y. Treasury Office | | | $78,186,362 |

The Export Clearances to foreign ports, from New-York, for the month of January were:

| Average price of gold | 144 ⅌ cent. | 237 ⅌ cent. |

The Foreign Exchanges for the steamers to-morrow are nearly or quite ¼ ⅌ cent. lower than for the packet of Wednesday. Bills were offered to-day in great variety on both England and France, and the very best London was quoted at the close at 107½@⅝ ⅌ cent., with sales of good Southern Bank Bills and other transient Exchange of undoubted credit at 107⅜@107½ ⅌ cent. The last Cotton news from the other side has imparted additional confidence to all bills drawn against Cotton, and we hear little or nothing said, at present, of a break-down in the trade at Liverpool and Manchester, which was rather the current belief three or four weeks ago. The Cotton of the old crops yet to go forward, embraced in the large stocks now in the ports and in the reasonable prospect of 300,000 or 400,000 bales yet to be received from the Southern interior, is having a most important and timely influence on Exchange, and to no inconsiderable degree also on the speculation in Gold; though the price of the latter was held comparatively steady through regular 'Change hours, in the neighborhood of 128@127½ ⅌ cent. by the short sales in the Gold Room, and the circumstance that the Treasury is absorbing $400,000 or $500,000 per day, without disbursing anything on Gold Interest or selling in the open market.

After 3 o'clock Gold fell to 126⅞ ⅌ cent., and soon after recovered to 127¼ ⅌ cent. The Customs demand to-day amounted to $511,000. The California packet Arizona arrived this morning with only a moderate Specie list, having connected at the Isthmus with the old steamer St. Louis from San Francisco.

The market for Money is quoted easy at 5 @6 ⅌ cent. to the Brokers, and 7 ⅌ cent. on strictly prime Merchant paper. The belief gains ground that the Treasury will reduce the interest on $70,000,000 or $80,000,000 now held on deposit, on ten days' notice, to 5 ⅌ cent., about the 1st April, and that some change will also be made in the terms of the $40,000,000 now held on deposit for account of the New-York, Philadelphia and Boston Clearing-house Banks.

The Funding measure before Congress has almost ceased to excite remark on the Stock Exchange. The impression is that nothing will be concluded on the subject by Congress for some weeks to come, if at all, and that the Secretary, on a review of his present funding authority, and under legal advice from the Attorney-General of the United States, will be satisfied to rest upon the laws as they now stand. Another report, this afternoon, is that the Committee of Ways and Means may report the bill to amplify the powers of the Secretary to fund the interest-bearing obligations of the Government, with a proviso to hold the old Greenback Circulation steady for six months or a year to come. At a later hour it was made known that the Bill to this purport was before the House.

The Government Securities were in request at full rates to-day, and the Railway speculation again very buoyant and widely distributed. Erie shares sold up to 82½ ⅌ cent.; Rock Island, to 118½ ⅌ cent.; Hudson, to 109 ⅌ cent.; Fort Wayne, to 92⅞ ⅌ cent.; and the Northwest Preferred, to 57½ ⅌ cent.—the last named falling back to 56⅞ at the Second regular Board. The dealings were large through the New-York and Western lists, and the upward speculation to all appearances strong and upward until late in the afternoon, when the effect of the immense transactions about 1 o'clock in Michigan Southern began to tell upon this stock, and, by sympathy, upon other descriptions. The extremes for Michigan Southern were 83@82¼ in the middle of the day, to 78¾@80 about 5 o'clock.

Late in the day Gold fell off to 126¾ per cent., and Bills on London, standard names, to 107⅝@107½ ⅌ cent. The gold bars by the recent California arrivals are now going into the Mint for coinage into double eagles. Heretofore they have been sold at a small discount, (not quite equal to the Mint charge of ½ ⅌ cent for coining,) for export. There was some abatement in the Railway excitement on the Stock Exchange, and prices fell off from the best sales of the day ½@1 ⅌ cent. At 5:30 P. M. the following quotations were made as compared with Thursday night:

SEC. 3. That the act shall be in force from its ratification.

The Western Pork Trade—Official Statistics of this Season's Packing—Total Number of Hogs Slaughtered, 1,684,474—Average Weight of each Hog, 231 3-10 Pounds—Average Yield of Leaf-Lard per Hog, 31 1.17 Pounds—No Authentic Evidence of Unusual Disease among Hogs.

From the very full annual report of the pork-packing business of the Western States this season, published by Mr. WM. SMITH, Secretary of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, in his Price Current, of Wednesday, March 21, we learn that the total number of hogs slaughtered and packed in the Western States, this season, is 1,683,474, of an average weight of 231 3-10 lbs. ⅌ hog, or equal to an aggregate of 1,984,710 hogs, of the average weight of the previous season's packing, which would leave a net deficiency this season of 466,909 hogs, or eighteen ⅌ cent. less than the crop of 1864-'5. The yield of leaf lard this season has been equal to an average of 31 1-17 ⅌ hog, the aggregate yield being 52,865,658 lbs., as against a total of 59,060,724 lbs. in the preceding season. This is leaf lard, and if head and gut be added both years, the result would compare about as follows: 1864-'5, 78,384,608 lbs.; 1865-'6, 69,786,674 lbs, making a deficit of 8,597,934 lbs.

The following is a summary of the total number of hogs packed in the various States enumerated in each of the last two seasons:

RECAPITULATION.

| | 1864-5. | 1865-6. |
|---|---|---|
| Ohio | 507,136 | 459,390 |
| Illinois | 1,001,426 | 622,047 |
| Indiana | 260,401 | 168,550 |
| Iowa | 176,807 | 76,011 |
| Missouri | 266,454 | 165,210 |
| Wisconsin | 121,123 | 99,547 |
| Kentucky | 118,267 | 92,719 |
| Grand totals | 2,451,619 | 1,683,474 |

The average weight and yield of lard is given with sufficient accuracy for all practical purposes, in the following table, which shows the averages by States for the past and previous season:

| | Av'age w'ght per Hog. 1865. Lbs. | Av'age w'ght per Hog. 1866. Lbs. | Yield of Lard per Hog. 1865. Lbs. | Yield of Lard per Hog. 1866. Lbs. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Ohio | 210 3-16 | 242 1-6 | 26 | 33 1-6 |
| Indiana | 201⅛ | 231 | 22⅛ | 31 |
| Illinois | 185 6-10 | 230⅛ | 20 1-16 | 29⅛ |
| Kentucky | 208 | 228 | 28⅛ | [illegible] |
| Missouri | 184⅛ | 222 1-9 | 20 6-7 | [illegible] 5-8 |
| Iowa | 189½ | 219 | 20⅛ | 30⅛ |

The editor of the Price Current, on these statistics, comments thus:

"It will be seen that while there is, again, a marked falling off, yet the deficiency is not by any means as large as had been expected; and although we supposed that our estimate of 2,000,000 hogs equal to the weight of the previous season given, as the extent of the present season's crop, in our impression of Jan 17, was an extreme one, the result shows that it was pretty nearly an accurate one. Farmers fed late—unusually so—and the great bulk of the packing was done in the month of January instead of December, as is usual. The short crop of pork, when there was a great abundance of food for hogs, can only be accounted for on the hypothesis of an absolute scarcity of hogs; and this must be the result of the high price, and the large demand for corn, which induced farmers to part with their hogs and cattle rather than feed corn to them."

Messrs. HENRY MILLWARD & Co., of Chicago, in their Circular, give the results of pork and beef packing in that city the present winter. The whole number of cattle packed is 23,728, against 92,459 the previous season. Of hogs 501,462 were packed, against 750,147 last season. The average weight of hogs is 226⅛ lbs., and the yield of lard 34⅛ lbs. The whole number of barrels mess pork packed was 107,361 against 101,717 barrels last season, and of prime mess 5,933 barrels, against 166,684 barrels last season.

All our letters and exchanges received from the Western States recently utterly deny the prevalence of disease among the hogs, slaughtered and packed this season. A few of the sensational item-mongers connected with the Press of Chicago, Detroit and Cincinnati, have made a tremendous effort to get up a panic, and the subject of the appearance of the trichina spiralis in this country, and on the direful consequences which were predicted as the inevitable issue of this novel Tuetonic invasion. Unfortunately for this theory, but most fortunately for an important commercial interest and for the people at large, the statements advanced in support of this new alarm cry were utterly destitute of authenticity. Not one single specific case of what the "learned pundits" of the press designated trichinosis was mentioned by any of the journalistic panic makers, whose dire-inspiring figures were all hideous metaphors, as vague and unsubstantial as wholesale falsehoods usually are. In our own City, those rural gentry have found imitators, who have zealously labored to make the public loathe the pork in every form, thus wantonly assailing a most important branch of trade, solely for the benefit of speculative adventurers, who have been doing their worst to break down the market, not to benefit consumers, but to enable themselves to purchase at seriously reduced prices, supplies sufficient to provide for their maturing contracts, put out at high figures. We have made diligent inquiry in all quarters entitled to consideration, and have failed to find one particle of evidence going to prove that the pork product of this country, this season, is infected by worms or any other disease. On the contrary, the unanimous testimony ay all parties, packers, consumers, physicians, and other competent judges, with whom we have conversed on the subject, is that the flesh of the hog is manifestly better this season than ever before, and that this is, owing to the steady improvement in the breeding of hogs in this country, the more general use of corn and other equally clean and nutritious fodder; and the more careful handling of the animals in all the processes, from slaughtering to marketing.

FAMILY MARKET PRICE CURRENT.

WASHINGTON MARKET, Friday, March 23, 1866.

MEATS.

Beef is stationary in price this week among the retailers, despite the sharp decline in the wholesale market on Monday and Tuesday last. Mutton is a trifle dearer, influenced by the temporary falling off in the supply of desirable grades. Genuine Spring Lamb was exhibited in one or two stalls in the upper market to-day. It was of superb quality and inestimable value, judging the latter by the prices asked by the epicurean dealers, namely, $3@$5 ⅌ quarter, of an average weight of about 5 lbs. Scant as was the supply, we have not the slightest doubt but that it was at least equal to the demand at these simply steep rates. Pork was quoted rather higher, notwithstanding the absurd cry of "worms in hogs," which to all disinterested parties sounds most suspiciously like "a false alarm," designed and propagated to advance the schemes of sinister speculators, who care infinitely less for the public health than for the means to enable them to fill their outstanding contracts to deliver pork, bacon, &c., at such a sweeping reduction in market values as will insure enormous profits to the sellers. In fact, the reflecting portion of the public have come to the conclusion that the whole trichina spiralis hubbub, in this country at all events, is but one of the means employed by the bears to corner the bulls in the pork market; that there never was less reason to denounce the hog product of these States as diseased and unfit for human food, than there is this season; and that, without reference to the interests of producers, slaughterers, curers, packers, dealers, &c., it is a positive injustice to the masses of the people to endeavor, by dishonest and disreputable agencies, to make them loathe one of the prime necessaries of life, especially among the working classes in our large cities. The trade in all kinds of meats, this week, has been on a restricted scale—an usual feature in Lent.

FISH.

Most kinds of fresh fish have been in comparatively liberal supply, and generally dearer in price, this week. Shad are falling slowly, as the receipts augment. North River Shad have not thus far made their appearance at the principal stands. Bass are unusually abundant, and in large demand at the ruling figures. Those on the stands to-day vary in size from an average trout to that of mammoth codfish. Whitefish are virtually gone for the season.

SUNDRIES.

Since the auction sale of Coal on Thursday, many of the dealers have marked their prices of best stove down to $9 ⅌ short ton. The demand is light, however, and the tendency is unmistakably to much lower figures. Those dealers, who continue to demand $9 50@$10 50 ⅌ 2,000 lbs., for stove coal, are simply imposing on their customers. Groceries are more active, this week, at about former rates. Flour has not varied essentially.

LAW REPORTS.

The Rights of Landlords and Tenants—When a Tenant Becomes a Trespasser—May-Day Moving—An Important Action Against the City—The Street Commissioner's Office, &c.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART II—MARCH 23.

Before Justice Monell.

Stillman Witt vs. the Mayor &c. of New York.—This action was brought to recover the sum of about $5,700, alleged to be due from the Corporation to the plaintiff, under the following circumstances: On or about the 3d of April, 1862, Mr. Wesley entered into a contract with the Comptroller of the city, whereby he agreed in writing to lease to the Corporation, for the term of one year from the 1st of May then next, the four upper stories of a certain portion of the TIMES Building, at the annual rent of $5,000. These premises were to be used, as they had been for a year or two immediately preceding, as offices for the Street Commissioner. It appears from the testimony in the case, that soon after the Street Comissioner took possession of the premises he caused considerable alteration to be made as to the internal arrangements of the rooms, by taking down partition walls which had been put up at the time of the construction of the building, and by putting up new partitions to accommodate the increasing business of the office. The premises were occupied, under the lease above stated, up to the forepart of May, 1863, by the Street Commissioner, and the rent for that year was duly paid. On this point there was no dispute. On the 23d of March, 1863, a resolution was introduced into the Common Council, authorizing the department to rent for the use of the Street Commissioner, rooms over the Broadway Bank, at a sum not to exceed $10,000. A lease was to be executed to take effect on the 1st of May, 1863. This resolution was finally passed by both Boards, and on the 1st of May received the signature of the Mayor. About the time of the passage of the resolution, Mr. Wesley called upon Comptroller Brennan in reference to making a new lease for the rooms in the Times Building. The Comptroller told Wesley he had nothing to do with it, that he had better see Mr. Cornell, the Street Commissioner. Wesley accordingly went to Albany, where Cornell was then a Senator. Mr. Wesley was put upon the witness stand, and testified that Cornell told him in Albany that they intended to occupy the rooms in The TIMES Building another year, and asked him, Wesley to meet him in a few days at the Comptoller's office to execute a lease from May 1st, 1863. On the 2d of the following May he received a note from the Street Commissioner, saying that they had that day commenced to move out, and would probably be able to complete the removal by the 9th of that month. Wesley further testified that the key of the door leading from the street to the rooms occupied by the Street Department above had never been delivered to the landlord.

This action was tried some days ago, before Justice McCunn and a Jury—with this difference—that Mr. Wesley was then a party plaintiff. The defendants at that time obtained a verdict in their favor, on the ground that the real party in interest had not brought the suit, it being shown that Stillman Witt, and not Mr. Wesley, was the owner in fee of the premises in question, and hence the proper person to be the plaintiff. In this action it is claimed by the complaint, that through some mistake Wesley's name was signed to the lease, and for that reason he was made plaintiff in the other suit. Mr. Witt, through his counsel, claimed not only the $5,000 rental for the rooms for one year from May 1, 1863, but also the sum of about $500 damages to the rooms in consequence of the removal of the original partition walls. The new partitions, put up under the direction of the Street Department, were taken away when the Commissioner removed from the building.

This claim for damages, the Court, on motion of the Counsel to the Corporation ruled out of the case, holding that in any event, this part of the claim could not be recovered in this action. The answer was a general denial.

At the conclusion of the plaintiff's testimony, Mr. Hackett, in behalf of the City, moved for a dismissal of the complaint. After some argument the Justice said he could not grant the motion, but he would suggest that, inasmuch as there appeared to be no dispute as to any of the material facts of the case, they might dispense with the Jury. The questions involved, he thought, were of a grave nature, but they were purely questions of law, with which the Jury had nothing to do. If the Jury were dispensed with, he could then give the case that careful consideration which its importance demanded. The counsel upon either side consenting, the Jury, at this stage of the trial, were relieved from the further consideration of the case.

Mr. Hackett insisted that the plaintiff could not recover in this action, because it had not been shown that there was any authorization by the Common Council to the Commissioner of Streets or to any other person to make a lease for the premises in question, from and after May 1, 1863. He read the resolution of the Common Council of March 23, empowering the Comptroller to lease rooms over the Broadway Bank at $10,000 a year. The reason assigned for making the change from "The Times Building" to the Broadway Bank was, that the increasing business of the Department rendered it necessary they should have more space. Mr. Wesley knew of the resolution of the Common Council, or if he did not he was bound to know; even a layman cannot excuse himself by pleading ignorance of the laws. They did not occupy the premises any portion of the year for which it was sought to collect the $5,000 rent. They could and would show by witnesses that they commenced to move on the 1st day of May; that it took from thirty to forty men for nearly a week to effect the entire removal.

Comptroller Brennan was put on the stand and testified that he became Comptroller in January, 1863; that Mr. Wesley called on him a day or two after the resolution of the 23d of March had been introduced; he called in relation to leasing the premises for the ensuing year; witness told him he had nothing to do about it; some days after Wesley called again and said he had seen Commissioner Cornell, and was to meet him in the office of witness to make arrangements about it; direction was given to commence to move on the 1st day of May, and witness believed the removal was commenced on that day.

Mr. Ely testified that he was chief clerk in the office of the Street Commissioner; the removal was commenced on the afternoon of the 1st of May, 1863, and it occupied something over a week; between thirty and forty men were employed during this time; there were as many employed as could be to advantage.

On his cross-examination witness said that some portions of the partitions were taken down and carried away.

Mr. Fithian, in behalf of the plaintiff, said they believed this action should be sustained; it was a just and fair claim; the yearly rental—$5,000—for four rooms in that part of such an edifice as the NEW-YORK TIMES Building, was a very small sum; the defendants by their action, had deprived the plaintiff of renting it during the year; he did not rent these rooms to other persons, and unless he had a valid claim against the City for that year's rent, there would be no income to him whatever for the premises. But they had a legal claim. The defendants had held over, and it was at the plaintiff's option to treat them either as trespassers and tenants by sufferance, or else to treat them as tenants according to the terms and on the same conditions as those expressed in the lease for the preceding year. The plaintiff could not lease the premises.

The Court—Why not?

Counsel—Because he could not get possession. According to the testimony of Mr. Wesley, the plaintiff has not up to this time received the key of the outer door, which door at that time was the only way of gaining access to the premises leased to the Street Department. The plaintiff did not know they would not take it. After he knew the resolution had been introduced in one branch of the Common Council he went to Albany; he there saw the Street Commissioner, who told him they would lease it for the ensuing year, and made an appointment to meet him in the Comptroller's Office.

The Court—Suppose that on the 1st of February of that year, I, as a private individual, had leased the premises in question from the plaintiff, the lease to take effect on the 1st of May ensuing, what then would have been the legal and equitable rights of the respective parties?

Mr. Fithian—Your Honor could have put an end to the contract. Plaintiff would be, in that case, bound to deliver possession to the lessee on the first day of May; he could not do it because he had not possession himself. The note of the 2d of May says, "we will commence to move to-day, and will be out by the 9th inst." If the lessor failed for any cause to deliver possession at the time specified, the lessee was not bound to accept possession afterwards.

The Court intimated the opinion that if a tenant commenced to remove on the first of May, and if, owing to the character of the articles or property to be removed, and the nature of the business theretofore transacted on the premises, it was necessary to occupy a week, or even a month, in completing the removal, the outgoing tenant could not be held liable for the consequences resulting from the delay.

The Court further said that plaintiff had his remedy if defendants did not move at the expiration of the term.

The plaintiff's counsel cited several cases to show that where a tenant holds over, the landlord can at his option treat him as a trespasser and tenant by sufferance, or he can elect to hold him for the rent agreed upon for the preceding term. In this case the plaintiff had chosen the latter course.

The Court said that as this was an important case, involving some nice questions of law, he should reserve his opinion.

For plaintiff, Mr. Fithian; for defendants, Mr. Hackett.

An Action of Slander—Charge of Intercepting and Purloining Letters.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—MARCH 23.

Before Justice Monell and a Jury.

Anton Schaeffer vs. Adam Gessel.—The plaintiff and defendant were formerly copartners in business on the corner of Fulton and Nassau streets, where they kept a large restaurant. In the month of March they dissolved partnership, and shortly thereafter the defendant charged the plaintiff, in the restaurant of Charles Bender, No. 13 College-place, in the presence and hearing of a number of persons, as we learn from the complaint, as follows: "That Scheffer intercepted and purloined a letter belonging and directed to me, and would have intercepted and purloined another letter had I not detected him." This was spoken in the German language, and coming to the knowledge of plaintiff, he brought this action to vindicate his character. There was much evidence given as to the meaning and intent of the German word underschagen. The Court interpreter testified that its meaning is "embezzling, intercepting and purloining," and that a felonious intent was expressed in the word. Upon this rested the plaintiff's case. The defence was a general denial. The defendant testifies that his private letters, and also those of the firm, were always addressed "Schaeffer & Gessel," and that he charged the plaintiff only with opening letters addressed to the firm. The jury rendered a verdict of $100 for the plaintiff.

For plaintiff, Geo. F. Langbien and C. A. Kunkle, Esqs.; for defendant, L. F. Cozzans, Esq., and Messrs. Miller and Johnson.

Court of General Sessions.

Before Judge Russel.

The March term of this Court ended yesterday, evidently much to the joy and gratitude of the Judge, the prosecuting attorney, the Clerks of the Court, and all others concerned, all indulging themselves in the belief that they had helped each other faithfully in disposing of more cases and sending more scoundrels to State Prison and Penitentiary than had ever been passed upon in the same number of days in any preceding term. The Court has only been in session thirteen days, during which time ninety-seven cases have been wiped from the calendar. Mr. Gunning S. Bedford, Jr., the Assistant District-Attorney, who has had the charge of all the cases in Court this term, has been incessant in his attention to business, and successful in the discharge of his duties to an extent which must entitle him to the praise of the public on whose behalf he has acted so faithfully and well.

Judge RUSSELL, whose attendance in court every term since the resignation of Recorder Hoffman has been constant, may now avail himself of at least partial rest from judicial duties for a brief period, as the Recorder elect, Hackett, will occupy the bench during the April term. A number of murder cases await the action of the Grand Jury for the next term, and it is probable that some of them may be turned over to the Oyer and Terminer.

Michael Hornet, a laboring man, who had by some means possessed himself of a quantity of counterfeit State Bank bills, was tried on the charge of having them with intent to pass, and convicted, with a recommendation to the mercy of the Court. He was sentenced to State Prison for two years.

William Simpson, indicted jointly with Henry Wheeler for burglary in the third degree, was put on trial, Mr. Chas. S. Spencer having been assigned as his counsel. Simpson and Wheeler had been caught on the premises of Levi H. Mace, Refrigerator Manufacturer, Nos. 111 and 113 Houston-street, on the morning of the 23d of February, at 4 o'clock, having effected an entrance by means of a skeleton key through the door, No. 113; then drilled a hole in the office safe, in which was some $60 in money, and introduced a fuse preparatory to blowing it open, when they were frightened by the approach of the officers. A large quantity of burglars' tools found on the person of the prisoners, were produced by Mr. Bedford. The quantity was so great that Mr. Spencer said he was afraid the Jury would be prejudiced against Simpson by the sudden appearance in Court of a hardware store stock. Mr. Spencer got off some jokes about Officer Sweet going into a refrigerator factory, and the officer not finding any refrigerators on the person of the prisoner, and a Mace (the proprietor) having been added, in evidence, to the heavy stock of burglar's tools produced. The jury, who were appealed to in the name of the last day of the term by Mr. Spencer, to be merciful; by Mr. Bedford, to render a verdict of guilty, and by Judge RUSSELL to do their duty without respect to the appeal of Mr. Spencer, rendered a verdict of guilty. It appears that Simpson has served four years in the State Prison, being only part of a term yet unexpired, for a burglary committed in Brooklyn. He was sentenced to five years more in the State Prison, to date from the expiration of the term he is now serving.

Ellen Rourke, a woman accompanied to the bar with two small children, one two years and the other four years old, and being in a critical condition of health, had been arrested at the instance of a sister-in-law, a woman of vile habits, who herself had been discharged, under a suspended judgment of the Court, having returned some money which she stole. Mrs. Rourke's name did not appear on the calendar, but Dr. Simmons, of the City Prison, having informed Mr. Bedford that the prisoner would be confined within the next ten days, he (Mr. Bedford) urged the Court to discharge her from custody, as he was sure the poor woman was more sinned against than sinning. He said that if the case had been brought to his attention earlier he would have acted with the same promptitude as he did then. The Court ordered her discharge, and payment of $10, in consideration of her confinement to the City Prison.

Patrick Smyth pleaded guilty to burglary in the third degree. He is 20 years of age and was born in Ireland. On the 10th of March he broke into the premises of August Trissler, No. 78 Delancy-street, and stole therefrom articles of the value of $121. He was sentenced to the State Prison for three years.

James Welsh, who stole from John J. Waight, of No. 117 Wall-street, on the 19th instant, an amount of money, pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sentenced to the State Prison for two years.

Robert Iverson on the 13th instant stole from Cyrus Ramsay, of No. 123 East Thirteenth-street, jewelry of the value of $200; pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sentenced to the Penitentiary or one year.

SENTENCES.

The following sentences were passed upon prisoners who were convicted or who had pleaded guilty during the past week: John Cleary, burglary, third degree; Penitentiary one year. Patrick Keeler, attempt at burglary in third degree; State prison two years and six months. John J. Burder, attempt at burglary in third degree; House of Refuge. Otto Karr, forgery in the fourth degree; Penitentiary one year. Charles Cunningham, grand larceny; State prison one year. Charles Stuart, grand larceny, State prison one year. Mena Barska, attempt at grand larceny; State prison two years and six months. Samuel Rogers, attempt at grand larceny; State prison two years. Edward Perkins, attempt at grand larceny; Penitentiary one year. Henry Keefer, attempt at grand larceny; State prison two years and six months Wm. Johnson, attempt at grand larceny; State prison two years. Court adjourned for the term.

A Card from E. D. Morgan & Co.

In the report of the case in several of the papers it would seem that we are presented as intending to avail of the "legal-tender law," to avoid the payment in gold of a contract payable in gold.

Whatever may have been the technicalities presented on the trial, it was never our intention to avail of any defence to an obligation fairly made, to discharge it otherwise than according to its letter, payable in gold meaning to be paid in gold coin of its full value according to its face.

Of course, the controversy was on the fairness of the contract as made; if that shall appear to be established, we shall assume its full value in gold dollars, without reference to any legal discussion upon any other point.

GENERAL NEWS.

A Corinth correspondent says that it is estimated that upon the two fields of Shiloh and Corinth there are not less than 12,000 Confederate dead, whose bones for the most part lie bleaching above ground, the rains having washed away the thin layer of earth with which most were originally covered. The Federal dead were all neatly interred, in the usual way, with head and foot boards in every instance, and, in most cases, were inclosed with wooden palings.

In Salt Lake City the Gentiles are permitted to assemble for Divine worship. Every Sabbath service is held in Independence Hall, by Rev. N. McLeod, who is a bold and fearless man. He has commenced a series of lectures on the vices of polygamy. On the occasion of these lectures the hall is crowded both with Mormons and Gentiles.

The New-Orleans dispatches do not confirm the reports of cholera at Mobile and Key West. The quarantine for Florida and coast vessels has been removed, and that for vessels from the West Indies, it is said, will soon be. This latter statement it is difficult to credit, when it is acknowledged that the disease prevails in some of the eastern Gulf Islands, though it has not reached Havana, as was once reported.

A serious railroad accident occurred near Connersville on the 21st, on the Cincinnati & Indianapolis Junction Railroad, which resulted in the entire destruction of the down passenger train. The wind having blown down one of the stone piers of the long bridge just east of Connersville, over Whitewater River, and otherwise weakened the structure, the locomotive went through, turning a somerset, and the baggage-car and two passenger-cars were thrown on top and completely demolished. The engineer and brakeman were severely injured, and some of the passengers somewhat bruised, but none dangerously.

A San Francisco Jury has acquitted the mutineers of the ship White Swallow on the ground that their acts were justifiable in view of their inhuman treatment by the officers of the ship. The mutiny consisted in placing and keeping the captain and mates in irons until they agreed to treat the men as human beings; after which they were released and the voyage completed without any further trouble.

The Commissioner of Customs, a day or two since, received a report from a customs officer stationed on the St. Lawrence River, to the effect that a party of smugglers had succeeded in laying pipes at the bottom of the St. Lawrence, through which they are engaged in pumping liquor from Canada into the United States.

The new iron bridge crossing the Ohio River at Steubenville, is completed, and trains cross regularly. This road is called the Great Pan Handle route, and connects with the Pennsylvania Central Railroad to Pittsburgh, and from Harrisburgh to New-York viâ the Allentown route. By this route there are only two changes of cars between Chicago and New-York.

The Brownsville (Texas) Courier, of the 8th inst., records the death by assassination of Mr. Eben Cobb, a native of Portland, Me., but a resident of Texas for several years. His body, with bullet holes in the head, was found four or five miles below Brownsville, on the Brazos road.

Gov. Fletcher, of Missouri, has sent in to the Legislature a message, in which he represents that the peace and quiet of the State are endangered by preparations of malcontents and banditti to resume operations this Spring, and asking for an appropriation of money to provide against the danger.

Jacksonville, Fla., has been visited by a destructive fire. Among other buildings the newspaper establishment of the Florida Union was burned to the ground. The town is destitute of a fire department.

The Norfolk (Va.) Post newspaper establishment, which includes a complete job-office, is offered for sale.

Both Houses of the Iowa Legislature have passed the resolution demanding the trial of Gen. Custer for having two Iowa soldiers flogged.

LOCAL NEWS.

An action of considerable interest to the public generally, and to the Corporation of the City of New-York in particular, was on trial yesterday in the Superior Court, Part II., before Justice Monell. It is entitled Stillman Witt vs. The Mayor, &c., and was brought to recover the sum of between $5,000 and $6,000, for rent of and damages to the premises known as the four upper stories of a certain portion of the New-York Times Building. From the 1st of May, 1862, to May, 1863, and for a year or two prior, these premises had been occupied by the Street Commissioners at an annual rental of $5,000, and the plaintiff now claims $5,000 for the rent from May, 1863, to May, 1864, although the Commissioners' office was removed from the Times Building to rooms over the Broadway Bank during the first ten days of May, 1863. Plaintiff insists that by reason of the defendants holding over after their term expired, he was unable to rent the premises to other parties during the year, and that the City is legally liable for the rent. Five or six hundred dollars were also claimed for damages to the rooms in removing partitions, &c. This claim was ruled out. The Court reserved its decision.

The March Term of the Court of General Sessions ended yesterday. During the term ninety-seven cases have been disposed of, a large number of prisoners have been consigned to State Prison and the Penitentiary. Considering the fact the Court has only been in session for thirteen days, the amount of business transacted reflects credit on the Judge, District Attorney and Clerks of the Court. William Simpson, a burglar, now serving a term in Sing-Sing Prison, was convicted of another burglary committed after escaping from prison, and sentenced to another term of five years in the State Prison.

Officer Van Name, of the Fourth Precinct, found a window open at No. 252 Front-street during Thursday night, and procuring assistance he entered the premises, and arrested three men, who were found drilling holes in the office safe, and a boy who had hidden himself under some straw on an upper floor. The gang had nearly completed their operations when surprised, and a large number of burglar's tools were found on the floor. The prisoners were committed for trial in default of bail.

Edward E. Dunbar, Esq., read an interesting paper on "The Discovery of Gold in California—its Antecedents and Results," before the Travelers' Club, last evening. Among the distinguished gentlemen present were: Gen. Sutter, of California; Gov. Price, of New-Jersey; Dr. Hayes, the Arctic Explorer; Mr. Church, artist; M. De Costa, son of the President of Venezuela, and Mr. Grinnell. Addresses were made by Gen. Sutter, Gov. Price, Mr. Tomlinson and Hon. F. A. Conkling.

At the meeting of the Metropolitan Board of Health, yesterday, Superintendent Dalton formally presented Washington Market as a nuisance, which can be abated only by removal. Measures were taken for the cleansing of certain tenement-houses, piers, fat-boiling establishments, slaughter-houses, &c. President Schultz and Dr. Swinburne are to confer with the proprietors of the rag-picking establishments in the City in reference to the ultimate removal of their business.

Two laborers named Charles Tregany and Charles Hawkins, fell yesterday from the upper stories of the new buildings in Wall and Canal streets, upon which they were employed. Both men sustained serious injuries, those of Hawkins resulting in death a few hours after.

The case of Simon Donan, distiller, came up for examination before United States Commissioner Betts yesterday. The accused is charged with bribing an inspector, and thereby defrauding the Government of the Internal Revenue tax. The examination will be resumed to-day.

There was much excitement in the railway market on the stock exchange yesterday, the speculation being upward. Government securities steady; the foreign exchanges in large supply and lower, and Gold fell off in consequence to 126⅝ ℔ cent.

Breadstuffs were moderately inquired for yesterday, at about previous prices. Provisions were in fair demand, as were also cotton, hay, leather, lead, tallow, stearine, sugars and coffee. Freights were pretty brisk, the chief engagements having been in the line of cotton, corn and oats, for Liverpool and London.

An Interpolation which Ought to be Expunged.—Since the Board of Education, at its last December session resolved that it would pay no journal for publishing accounts of its proceedings, the ring organ in this City has continued its reports as of old, omitting only the seal of the Board and the word "official." It has been supposed that the organ has published the Board's proceedings on speculation, taking the risk of getting through, at some meeting of the School Commissioners, properly packed, an appropriation covering the job; but such is not the fact. The secret is found in a clause which was interpolated in chapter 605 of the session laws of 1865, as follows: "It shall be the duty of each of the several Commissions which receive and expend moneys raised by tax in the County of New-York to keep full minutes of all their meetings, and immediately upon their adjournment to transmit a copy thereof to the Board of Supervisors of said County." Under this seemingly innocent provision of law, which, by the way, was adroitly thrust by an expert into an act, which was at last hurriedly passed at the heel of the session, the Police Commissioners are required to employ an additional clerk to make transcripts of their minutes, and the Board of Health, the Central Park Commission, the Board of Education, and all other Commissioners, must saddle extra expense upon their respective Boards, that the Board of Supervisors may have documents to toss over to the enterprising publishers of the Transcript, by them to be printed in their columns, and charged to the county at the rate of fifteen cents a line. It is said that this ring organ, which is not a journal of general circulation, and probably does not print a daily edition of five hundred copies, costs the City and county from $500,000 to $600,000 annually. Ought tax-payers longer to be burdened with this useless tax? A petition has been sent to Albany, asking the repeal of section three of chapter 605 of the laws of the Eighty-eighth Session, from which we have quoted above. Will the Legislature take this matter in hand?

Contraction of the Currency—Mr. McCulloch and Congress.

The Secretary of the Treasury encounters opposition from two parties, differing widely in their motives, but having a common interest in the defeat of his plans. The paper-money theorists and the gambling speculators are all against him. The former, failing to distinguish between the transient prosperity produced by currency inflation and the true prosperity which results from trade conducted on a healthy basis, refuse to vest in the Secretary an authority which may be exercised adversely to their theory. The gamblers, who profit most when most the country suffers, are naturally anxious to frustrate a policy designed to benefit honest industry by putting down the wild spirit of speculation engendered by the lavish expenditures of the war. These classes, combined, have thus far succeeded in keeping the question of national finance in a condition of dangerous uncertainty.

The almost universal satisfaction created by Mr. McCulloch's Fort Wayne speech, left no room for a misunderstanding of the national judgment in regard to the solution of the financial problem. It was everywhere deemed fortunate that the country had for its chief financial administrator one who discriminated between the exigencies of the Treasury in a time of war and the real requirements of commerce and industry in a period of peace. The impression was strengthened by the luminous discussion of the subject in his report, presented at the opening of the session. With a clearness which carried conviction, and a thoroughness which covered the whole ground, Mr. McCulloch in that document exposed the fictitious character of much that is now called prosperity, pointed out the dangers to which every important interest is exposed by a vast currency composed of inconvertible paper, and dwelt upon the necessity of gradually but surely returning to a specie basis. The soundness of his reasoning, and the wisdom of his conclusion, few ventured to impugn. The efficacy of some of his suggestions might be called in question. But the expediency of pushing forward the work of currency contraction, cautiously and steadily, was too obvious to be controverted.

President Johnson's utterances on the same subject have afforded equal satisfaction. In a few terse sentences, he has expounded the creed of the American people in relation to paper money. They want none of it, unless it be convertible into gold and silver. The Legal Tender Act they recognize as one of the necessities of the war; the issue of inconvertible paper they have loyally sustained as essential to the suppression of the rebellion; they are alive to the difficulties which stand in the way of the resumption of specie payments, and the dangers that are inseparable from hasty and sweeping measures; but they nevertheless demand that the course of Congress and of the Treasury shall proceed upon the principle of contracting the circulation of currency with a view to the early restoration of a specie standard. The prettiest bubbles which the advocates of inflation may be able to blow will have no effect upon this form of public opinion. The blackest pictures which gamblers may contrive to paint will not deter the people from insisting upon the judicious prosecution of this change, and its consummation at the earliest possible moment. The inconveniences it entails upon limited classes and special interests are as nothing compared to that great national interest of industry and trade, which will be benefited by the overthrow of speculative values, and the assimilation of prices to the only standard which is compatible with the permanent maintenance of the public credit. Whatever the theorists imagine or the gamblers allege, the people know that a temporary dullness of trade, and occasional injury to individual purses, are preferable to the overwhelming ruin that will be inevitable if no attempt be made to amend the existing order of things.

To carry out his plans, however, Mr. McCulloch needs the aid of Congress, and this is withheld. The authority he seeks to give effect to the views embodied in his Fort Wayne speech, set forth at length in his annual report, indorsed on more than one occasion by the President, and accepted unequivocally by the people, is denied him. Why? Not because any considerable number in the House favor perpetual inconvertibility. Not because the theorists and inflationists are in the ascendency. Not because there are gambling speculators who dare rise in their places, and openly contend that unsound prices and unwholesome uncertainty shall prevail, that an insignificant class may retrieve their losses or swell their gains. Why, then, is Mr. McCulloch thwarted, and his effort to impart a fixed direction to finance and trade paralysed? The answer vouchsafed to us is, that it is not safe to intrust to the present or any other Secretary of the Treasury the power that would be conferred by the Loan Bill as originally reported. But a little examination of the debates upon the subject shows that this, the avowed, is not the real reason. For that, we must search in the objections to the details of the measure, the controlling opposition to which proceeds from hostility to any scheme of contraction which shall provide for the calling in of any portion of the non-interest-bearing notes.

Take the total amount of circulation, roundly speaking, at nine hundred millions, of which four hundred and fifty millions are in non-bearing interest notes, one hundred and eighty millions compound interest notes, and two hundred and sixty millions in National Bank currency, the last item being susceptible of increase to three hundred millions. Mr. McCulloch asks discretionary power to fund the compound interest notes and one hundred millions of the old greenbacks; his hypothesis being, that the gradual absorption of these amounts will as gradually reduce the rate of discount to which the currency is now subject, the completion of the absorbing process and the appreciation of currency to the gold standard being expected to occur at about the same time. On the other hand, the more conservative opponents of Mr. McCulloch propose to limit his power to contract to the compound interest notes alone; while certain of the radicals resist all contraction, and urge the issue of legal-tender non-interest-bearing notes to provide for the redemption of those carrying compound interest.

As to the extent of the contraction contemplated by Mr. McCulloch, it is not easy to see how it could be less if the contraction aimed at be genuine, and not a sham. The object being to restore the currency to a specie standard—in other words, to make currency and gold equal in value—it is evident that the hundred millions of greenbacks to be absorbed in the process are not an excessive proportion of the amount to be operated upon. Approximately speaking, they form but about one-seventh of the amount now in circulation; and surely the withdrawal of these may be advantageously borne, if the result be to raise to par the value of the remaining six-sevenths. The funding of the compound interest notes cannot possibly effect the money market, inasmuch as they are already held not as currency in circulation, but as securities awaiting their maturity. Nor will the withdrawal of a hundred millions of greenbacks involve the contraction of the circulating medium to that amount; because with the equalization of paper and gold will come the restoration of gold and silver coin to the ordinary transactions of trade.

Grant if you will that an attempt immediately, and with one stroke, to fund the compound interest notes and a hundred millions of greenbacks would be followed by panic and widespread disaster. The merits of Mr. McCulloch's plan are not thereby lessened a single iota. His purpose is not sudden, wholesale contraction, but gradual and even slow contraction, so regulated that it shall produce comparatively slight disturbance in any direction. The tendency toward contraction and a specie standard is the vital point to be determined. For all else, the country must be dependent upon the exercise of judgment and the influence of integrity in some quarter. And we apprehend that this reliance, indispensable as it is, may with more safety be placed upon a Secretary of the Treasury whose every proceeding since his advent to office has been characterized by consummate judgment, rare moderation and unimpeachable honesty, than upon members of Congress, who evince their ignorance of economic science by proposing to fix the price of gold.

Home to Roost.—Moved by the sharp thrusts of nearly all the Canadian journals, the two morning papers of this city that have most recklessly pandered to the so-called Fenian movement, were yesterday contemporaneous in confessions of their outrageous lying about this matter. Their chickens, like curses, have come home to roost, and it will be long before the editors recover from the effect of their most unwarrantable and wicked misrepresentations. It is not too much to say that if the New-York press had simply told the truth about this business, just given the real facts and no more, the Fenian excitement would to-day have been a thing of the past, and many hundred thousand dollars, taken from the hard-earnings of Ireland's generous but credulous children, would have remained to their credit in the Savings Banks. Even now these journals are endeavoring to reinflate the bubble, and give out dreadful innuendoes of plots and traps and fearful designs soon to burst upon the startled world. For the credit of journalism these open and manifest humbugs should be sternly discountenanced. All newspapers are likely to be deceived, and sometimes to publish wild and exaggerated stories; but when any one of them persists in systematic exaggeration and goes so far as to keep special correspondents to manufacture untrue and exciting dispatches, they all suffer more or less of the odium that must finally attach to the guilty. The editor of a great public journal, in these days, stands before the people in the character of a witness in a court of law, and is in duty bound to deliver his messages under the moral sanction of an oath (of honor) to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," so far as reasonable care and effort may enable him to do so. He who does otherwise is a false light upon a dangerous shore, luring the trusting mariner to fatal rocks and quicksands and breakers for the benefit of smugglers and wreckers, such as have been and are now running the Fenian swindle.

Malicious Misrepresentation.—The Tribune says that "every British journal of note that was a champion of the rebel cause throughout our great struggle is now heaping adulation upon President Johnson, while it denounces and execrates the action of Congress. We believe there is no exception." Now the Tribune don't believe anything of the kind. The Daily News and the Manchester Examiner, always on the side of the North, praise the speech, with some unimportant qualifications. The Saturday Review, the very ablest and bitterest of our enemies, denounces the man and the speech in unmeasured terms. Between these extremes run praise and blame with about as much reference to the former notions of the papers on our great struggle as to the code of Justinian. It is an old and smart trick to argue from assumed facts—we say nothing of its honesty—since the chances are that not one reader in ten, and in this instance not one in a hundred, has the inclination or the means to test the proofs. And in such instances it becomes the duty of the Press to expose the trick, even though in the performance of the disagreeable task they may touch pitch.

Keeping it Up.—The Fenian newspapers have already given notice that Mr. Stephens, the Chief Executive of their "Government," has escaped from his great Republic, and is on his way to America. In due season we shall probably hear of the arrival and tumultuous welcome of a Chief Executive. But will he be the real original Jacobs, or only a bogus baby? This preparation in advance looks suspicious. Indeed, it remains an open question if there is, or ever was, such a person as Mr. Stephens.

Advice without Example.—A Democratic journal commends the act of a Connecticut postmaster who has resigned a place of considerable value, requesting the Government to give it to some disabled soldier. The act reflects credit upon the Republican who offers it; the sneer reflects (if possible) disgrace upon the barnacles of that heartless and selfish party, of whom one of their great leaders long ago bitterly said, "Few die, and none resign."

A Great Bore.

There was a public exhibition (yesterday afternoon) near the corner of Fifty-fifth-street and Ninth-avenue, of what is known as the Sweeney Rotary Boring Machine. The exhibition was a remarkable success. The machine makes a 13-inch bore at the rate of an inch a minute through the hard, gritty stone common over all the upper portion of the island. The cutters, made of ordinary chilled cast iron, are good for a bore of fifty feet in depth, without being renewed or tempered; and a ten-horse engine is about all the required motive power. A number of gentlemen, experts in various departments of mechanical science and art, witnessed the exhibition with no common satisfaction.

Death of an Old Printer.—Ulysses F. Doubleday, who died at Bloomington, Ill., recently, was a native of the County of Otsego, where, in 1809, he was apprenticed to H. & E. Phinney, of whom he learned his trade. In 1813 he was journeyman printer at Utica, in the office of Messrs. Seward & Williams. In 1814 he came to Albany, where he worked for Messrs. Webster & Skinner, and where he married the daughter of Capt. Thomas Donnelly, for many years Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Assembly. In 1816 he established a paper at Ballston, Saratoga County, from which place he removed to Auburn, editing in that village for many years an able journal. In 1831 Mr. Doubleday was elected to Congress, and in 1833 he was reëlected. Subsequently he removed to this City, where he resided until within a few years. Mr. Doubleday regulated his life by fixed rules and rigid principles—rules and principles from which, with him, there was no departure. He was a great student, and acquired, during his intervals of leisure while an apprentice and journeyman, a good knowledge of Latin and French.

The President in Connecticut.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The following article will explain itself. It was prepared for the Washington Chronicle, to one of whose editors we presented it, and by whom it was declined. We desire to bring it to the attention of our friends and others in Connecticut previous to the election in that State.

J. F. B.,
F. W. S., Jr.

New-York, Friday, March 23, 1866.

To the Editor of the Washington Chronicle:

In an editorial article of the Chronicle of this morning, we understand you to favor the idea that the result of the New-Hampshire election is in some respects a verdict against the Union policy of President Johnson, and an approval of the action of Congress, so far as that action is at variance with the desires of the President; and you also intimate, as we understand you, that the election of Gen. Hawley in Connecticut may be justly interpreted in the same way.

If this be your meaning, we beg leave to say, in advance, that such an inference and such a use of the election of Gen. Hawley would be a gross perversion of the truth, and wholly contrary to the assurances publicly and privately given by Gen. Hawley, who, it is admitted, could not be elected but by the aid of the friends of the President and his policy.

Yet we do not claim that this policy is involved in the issue of this election, and we therefore protest in advance against any such inference; and if such a use is made of that election, we assure you that the effect will be injurious to the Union organization.

The question may be asked why the conservatives of Connecticut do not act with the other organization which has unreservedly avowed its support to the President's policy? Our answer is, that we have more confidence in the men who have proved their loyalty on the fields of battle, and by their efforts to sustain the Government in the darkest period of the war, than in those who sought to discourage enlistments, destroy the credit of the Government, and give aid and comfort to the rebels; and whom we cannot trust with their cheap professions, even though they head their ticket with a gentleman whose war record is not so objectionable, but whose accommodating temper is such that he allows himself to be used to advance the interest of a party whose loyalty was tried and found wanting.

We are also firm in our belief that the President prefers to settle this contest inside of the Union Party, giving those of the opposite side who are sincere in their professions the opportunity of throwing their strength where it most properly belongs, namely, into that portion of the Union Party which is confessedly in harmony with their views.

JAMES F. BABCOCK, } of Connecticut.
F. W. SMITH, Jr., }

Amusements.

Academy of Music.—The "Don Giovanni" matinée, it must be remembered, begins to-day at 11 o'clock, and the doors open at 10. Of the cast, we have already spoken. It includes the best artists of Mr. Maretzek's company. The work itself is of course the finest attraction that could be offered.

Symphony Soiree.—Mr. Theodore Thomas' fifth and last symphony soirée will be given to-night at Irving Hall. The programme is most excellent—the best, we think, that has ever been presented at any single concert. These are the orchestral pieces: Overture, "Consecration of the House," by Beethoven; Overture, scherzo and finale, by Schumann; and Symphony "Harold in Italy," by Berlioz. The vocal department is intrusted to Mrs. Lizzie Eckhardt, who sings pieces by Weber, Schubert and Schumann. The "Harold" Symphony, it will be remembered, was played by Mr. Thomas last season, and created a genuine musical excitement.

Philharmonic Society.—The first rehearsal of the last Philharmonic concert takes place to-day at 3 o'clock.

Theatre Francais.—An extra performance, by the members of the French company, will be given to-night at the Academy of Music, when the spectacular piece of "Satan, ou les Enfers de Paris," will be performed. The directors of this meritorious enterprise, Messrs. Juignet and Drivet, have labored under great difficulties during the past year. With a large and satisfactory company on their hands they were yet unable to procure an establishment in which their representations could be given. They were consequently driven to a precarious existence in other cities, and such few opportunities as have been presented on odd nights at the Academy. They have, we need scarcely say, sustained heavy losses, and the performance to-night is intended for their benefit. We trust that it will interest the public and accomplish the object it has in view.

Winter Garden.—Mr. Booth's matinée in aid of the Soldiers' Orphan Home—to which we referred yesterday—takes place to-day. The play is "Don Cæsar de Bazan."

GANG OF BURGLARS ARRESTED.

They are Surprised While at Work on a Safe in Front-street—A Complete Set of Burglars Tools Seized.

Soon after 11 o'clock on Thursday night, while Officer Van Name, of the Fourth Precinct, was patrolling his beat, he discovered that one of the front windows of Messrs. Wheeler & Merritt's premises, No. 252 Front-street, was partially open. Suspecting that burglars were concealed inside the premises, he ran round to the Station-house and procured assistance, without alarming the thieves by rapping on the pavement. Roundsman Townes, Officer Craig and Detective Mullen were the reinforcements received by Officer Van Name, and on their arrival at No. 252 the policemen noiselessly slipped through the window into the interior. Proceeding with caution through the store into the rear they discovered three men in the office busily engaged in drilling a number of holes in the large safe standing there. They were immediately secured, being completely surprised.

They gave their names as George Johnson, William Moore alias Dan Kelly and John Saunders. The safe was found pierced with several holes, preparatory to inserting powder, and had not the Patrolman acted as he did on discovering the traces of the burglarious entry, they would have either succeeded in their operations or made good their escape. Scattered about the floor of the office were found a large jimmy, four feet in length, a steel brace and twenty-five drills, with a bag containing a great variety of other tools used by burglars.

A search of the entire premises was made by the Police before conveying their prisoners to the Station-house, when they found on an upper floor a boy about 16 years of age, concealed beneath some straw. On being questioned, he gave the name of Robert Smith, and proved to be an accomplice of the gang arrested down stairs. Dan Kelly has been since recognized as one of a gang who broke into the office of the New-Haven Steamboat Company in Peck-slip, some four years ago. The four prisoners were arraigned yesterday before Justice Hogan, at the Tombs Police Court, and held for trial in default of $2,000 bail each.

Johnson is 27 years of age, and says he lives at one of the hotels in Broadway. Moore is 32 years of age, a barkeeper, and resides in Forty-seventh-street. Saunders is a machinist, 32 years of age, and resides in Fourteenth-street. Smith is not quite 16, is a salesman, and resides in Thirty-second-street. All four of the prisoners claim to be natives of this City.

Moore has but recently emerged from the State Prison at Sing Sing, where he had served out a sentence of three years and six months for his participation in the Peck-slip burglary.

Fires.

IN READE-STREET.

At 9 o'clock yesterday morning a fire was discovered on the fifth floor of No. 143 Reade-street, occupied by David T. Dunn as a paper-bag manufactory. The flames were promptly extinguished. Damage to stock, $1,000. Insured for $7,000 in the Croton and other Companies. The damage to building is about $500. Insured for $10,000 in the Greenwich Insurance Company. The origin of the fire is supposed to have been caused by overheating the furnace under the steam-boiler.

IN ROOSEVELT-STREET.

At 1:15 yesterday morning a fire occurred in the basement of No. 1 Roosevelt-street, occupied as a junk-shop by Mark Moriarty. The firemen succeeded in confining the flames to the basement. Loss on stock $1,200. Insured for $500 in the Rutgers Insurance Company. The building is damaged to the extent of $150. The fire is believed to be of an incendiary origin.

Coroner's Inquest.

DEAF MUTE KILLED BY A RAILROAD TRAIN.

Coroner Wildey held an inquest yesterday at the Thirty-second Precinct Station-house, on the body of Norman Ambrose, a deaf mute, who was struck by the locomotive of an express train on the Hudson River Railroad, at the Fort Washington depot, on the 21st inst., as already reported in the Times. Harvey P. Peet, Principal of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, testified that the deceased had been a pupil of his, and was missed from the Institute on the morning of the accident; that three messengers were immediately sent in search of him, when they learned that he had been run over and killed. Joseph Maloney testified to having seen the deceased walking on the track a short distance below Fort Washington station; that he apparently did not perceive the approaching train, although the whistle was blown several times to warn him of his danger. The locomotive struck Ambrose with great violence, throwing him a considerable distance into the ditch, whence he was removed to the depot, where death put an end to his sufferings. The statement of the engineer of the train corroborated the testimony of this witness. Deputy Coroner Wooster Beach, Jr., M. D., made a superficial examination of the body, and found several injuries, each sufficient to cause death. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the engineer from all blame. The deceased was a native of New-York and 17 years of age.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Wood's Gymnasium.—The fourth reception of the season took place at Wood's Gymnasium, in East Twenty-eighth-street, last evening. A very large number of spectators assembled, among whom were several hundred ladies. At 8 o'clock, some twenty young men commenced a series of gymnastic feats, which elicited considerable applause. The aerial and equestrian flights were very gracefully performed, and the exercise of the double trapeze was quite equal to what is usually witnessed at our hippodromes and other places of amusement. La Perche, the flying trapeze, slack-rope, &c., were all gone through with in a very creditable manner, the performers exhibiting grace and skill as well as strength and endurance.

Arrivals in the City.—Gen. Sutter, U. S. A.; Hon. J. Bailey, Utica; Judge A. Buck, Baltimore; Hon. H. T. Smith, Pennsylvania; Gen. J. B. Park, U. S. A.; Gen. T. W. Bailey, U. S. A.; Gen D. P. Hancock, U. S. A., and Gen. M. S. Mansfield, U. S. A., are at the Metropolitan Hotel. Gen. Henry W. Slocum, Spracuse; Gen. H. L. Robinson, Washington; Gen. A. L. Lee, U. S. A., and Gen. H. H. Heath, Fort Kearney, are at the St. Nicholas Hotel. Hon. J. E. English, New-Haven; Capt. J. Eldridge, Cape Cod; Judge Quigley and lady, Philadelphia; Hon. H. Harris, Albany, and Hon. Oakes Ames, North Faston, are at the Astor House.

Miss Starr's Readings.—Miss Azile Starr gave a series of readings from the poets last evening at Clinton Hall before quite a large audience. The selections comprised passages from "Julius Cæsar," the ghost scene in "Hamlet," "The Vagabonds," "Sheridan's Ride," &c. Miss Starr has a strong but pleasing voice, and a natural manner of delivery. She expresses passion without rant, and modulates her voice with much skill. She made a very favorable impression on her audience last evening, who insisted upon a repetition of the ride from Winchester. The readings will probably be repeated.

Religious Services at the Soldiers' Depot.—Closing religious services are to be held to-morrow, at the New-York State Soldiers' Depot, Nos. 50 and 52 Howard-street, at 3 o'clock P. M. It is designed to make this occasion a highly interesting one, and with that object in view, addresses are to be delivered by eminent divines of various religious denominations. The Governor and his Staff have been invited, and the presence of those who have served in the army is especially requested.

A New Ferry to Staten Island.—The steam ferry between Port Richmond, S. I., and Bergen Point, N. J., will be in operation within a few days. The New-Jersey Central Railroad Company have also made arrangements to construct a branch line from the nearest station to the Point, to run in connection with the ferry. As the Central Railroad trains run from Communipaw every hour, or oftener, Staten Islanders will hereafter be able to reach their homes with less delay than at present, and to set fogs and ice at defiance.

Burglars at Work on a Safe.—Shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday morning, the premises No. 129 avenue D, occupied as a ship-chandlery and hardware store by John H. Seaman, were entered by burglars with false keys. After gaining an entrance the thieves poured a quantity of powder into the lock of the iron safe standing in the office, exploding the charge with a fuse. The safe door was forced open by the explosion, when the burglars secured $25 in U. S. Treasury notes, making good their escape.

The Religions of the World.—Rev. Charles B. Smyth will deliver a lecture on behalf of the American Protestant Association Mission, at Clinton Hall, on Monday evening. His subject will be, "In general, the religions of the world; in particular, a comparative view of the features and phases of Protestantism and Popery."

Reception by Company B, Thirty-seventh Regiment.—A reception by this Company will take place at their Armory, corner of Broadway and Thirty-fifth-street, on Friday evening, the 30th inst., at 8 o'clock. Military gentlemen are requested to appear in uniform.

Accident at a New Building.—Charles Fregary, a laborer, while at work yesterday morning on the new building at the corner of Wall-street and Hanover-square, fell from the third story to the ground floor, sustaining severe internal and external injuries. He was removed to the New-York Hospital.

Full Choral Service.—On Sunday, the 25th, a full choral service will be performed in the Church of the Annunciation, Fifth-avenue, at 7:30 P. M., in the old style.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Shooting Affray in Kent-avenue—A Man Shot Three Times but not Fatally.—An old feud between a man named John Moore, residing at No. 14 Kent-avenue, Eastern District, and William Bouton, a workman employed in the National Firearms Company's works in the same avenue, culminated in a shooting affray about 7 o'clock yesterday morning, during which Moore was shot at four times by Bouton, three balls taking effect, but none of them inflicting wounds likely to prove fatal. The cause of the deadly assault arose from a misunderstanding between the parties in relation to a bill of $7 for rent alleged to be due Moore from Bouton, the latter having at one time been a tenant of the former. About 7 o'clock, as before stated, Moore was engaged in making repairs at the front of his residence, when Bouton and a friend of his passed him on their way to work. While passing, Moore called out to Bouton, asking him when he was going to pay his rent. The latter then, it is alleged, drew a revolver from his pocket and discharged one barrel of it at the former, the ball entering the right side and passing out to the right of the nipple. Moore then advanced toward Bouton with a shovel in his hand, when the latter again discharged his revolver at him three times in rapid succession. Two of these bullets took effect, the first in Moore's right shoulder, the second in his right arm, between his shoulder and elbow, and the third passed close to the same arm. Bouton then ran away, and Moore entered his own residence, and sent for a surgeon to dress his wounds. These are not of a serious nature, but the surgeon failed to extract a bullet, which lodged deeply in the right shoulder. Bouton is still at large. After the shooting he went to his home in Graham-avenue, and informed his wife what he had done. Bouton is an Englishman, 30 years of age, and has always been considered hitherto a peaceable and industrious man. Moore is a native of Ireland; 46 years of age.

Gift to a Methodist Pastor.—Last evening a large number of the friends of Rev. George Taylor, who is now finishing his ministerial term at the Gothic, M. E. Church, Grand-street, Eastern District, gathered into his parsonage, and in view of his laborious services in aiding the officers of the church to cancel its debt, presented him with an insurance policy upon his life for the sum of $2,000, Mr. Wm. Anderson making the presentation speech. The surprised pastor did the best he could to acknowledge the gift, but was so unexpectedly visited with this kindness that he was compelled to be brief and expressive in his thanks. Mrs. Taylor was presented with a very fine buoquet.

Coroner's Inquests.—Coroner Lynch yesterday held an inquest on the body of Mr. Thomas Baker, 88 years of age, residing at No. 120 North Ninth-street, E. D., who died early the same morning without medical attendance. It appears that Mr. Baker had fallen in a fit the day previous, and never rallied. Verdict accordingly. The same Coroner held an inquest on the body of Christian Miller, who died from the effects of the caving in of an embankment of a vault upon which he had been at work the day previous, in Delmonico-place. Deceased was a German, 40 years of age, and leaves a family at No. 70 Vailt-street, E. D. Verdict, accidental death.

Fire and Accident.—About 6 o'clock last evening, Mrs. Margaret Finnegan, residing at No. 92 Fulton-street, near Hicks-street, was severely burned by her clothes taking fire from a kerosene lamp which she was attempting to light. She was badly injured, and was conveyed to the City Hospital for treatment. The premises were only slightly damaged.

Fire.—About 7 o'clock last evening a fire broke out in a shed in the rear of Fullam & Co.'s Kerosene Oil Factory, No. 33 Furman-street, resulting in the destruction of the structure, amounting to about $1,000 in value. Insured.

The Lee-avenue Sunday-school Fair.—The number of visitors at the fair at Dr. Willett's Church was 4,000, and the receipts $2,025 91.

SOUTH AMERICA.

Fighting Between the Spanish Fleet and Chilian Forts—Bolivia Declares War Against Spain—Threats of Bombardment Against Valparaiso.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Panama, Thursday, March 15, 1866.

We have dates from Valparaiso and Santiago de Chili to the 17th February, and from Callao and Lima to the 27th.

Peru.

Great preparations are being made in Callao to resist an attack of the Spanish fleet. The papers say: "We will have eight torpedoes ready in the course of next month." Perhaps it would be well for the papers now that they have mentioned how many torpedoes they are going to have, and when they are going to be ready, to tell the Spaniards exactly where they are located. If torpedoes are not more effective in this war than they were with us and our enemies in the rebellion of the Southern States, the Chilians and Peruvians had better invest their money in some other weapons.

The Government having forbidden all exportation of coals and provisions, the merchants protested against the order. Those of Callao counseled the Government to allow coals and provisions to be exported from one part of the Republic to the other.

A great inundation had destroyed much of the crops and many of the houses in Lambayeque.

Confidence had been restored in Lima in the banks and houses that suffered by the failure of the Bank of Providencia.

Bolivia.

Just at the termination of the thirteen months' revolution, Bolivia has formally allied herself with Chili, Peru and Ecuador, against Spain, and will make common cause with them.

Chili.

The frigates Villa de Madrid and Blanca, which lately went on a cruise from Valparaiso, nobody knew whither, have been heard from. A Valparaiso paper says:

"These frigates went to look for the allied squadron and found them safely situated at some distance up the river, whose bar the larger frigates dared not pass. At the mouth of the river is a Chilian fortification of considerable strength, and which, in addition, had mounted the guns taken from the Peruvian frigate Amazonas, lately wrecked on the bar. The Spaniards essayed to shell the place, and attempted at long range to reach the squadron inside. The fire was handsomely returned by the fort, and with considerable effect on the Spaniards, whose frigate Blanca has received very considerable damage, so much so that both frigates hopelessly left the place to return in disgrace to Valparaiso, where they now are. This may be considered another triumph to the allied arms, and will still more and more inspire pluck and determination to the whole coast, to resist their common enemy."

The Spanish crews are said to be suffering much from sickness.

Rumors that mediation had been proposed and accepted, were rife at Santiago. The Patria says:

"We are assured that the Government had declined to consider the propositions of the British and French Ministers, for the double reason that these propositions are inadmissable, and it can take no resolution in the premises without the consent of the allied Governments."

The Nacional of Leima has the following: "Without guaranteeing in the slightest degree the report, which has been communicated to us in a private manner, we learn that just as the steamer was leaving Valparaiso, the chief of the Spanish squadron passed a note to the Government of Chili, threatening Valparaiso with bombardment if the torpedoes which were known to be placed in the harbor were not destroyed."

It was rumored in Valparaiso that credits to a large amount granted by the Oriental Bank Corporation of London on their correspondents, the Bank of Valparaiso had been dishonored by the directors of the latter establishment. They were, however, immediately taken up by the National Bank of Chili for the honor of the Oriental Bank Corporation.

UNITED STATES OF COLOMBIA.

Message of the President and Accompanying Documents—Naval News—Miscellaneous.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Panama, Thursday, March 15, 1866.

We have no very important news from any quarter the past ten days, and nothing of much interest has turned up, locally. The papers here have been publishing and discussing the valedictory messages and reports of the President of Colombia and his secretaries, although there is but little that is remarkable in them. The President, in regard to a late law of the Colombian Congress, says:

"The declaration contained in the late law which was given by last Congress, that 'the nation is not responsible for damages and injuries that may be inflicted on foreigners in the time of war and through it, for they shall in such cases have the same rights and facilities as the natives,' has not obtained—which was easy to foresee—the acquiescent consent of the Governments of Europe or of the United States of America, who, far from adhering to that law, have protested against it and declared that in cases which may occur they will make all their rights valid. As the above principle, although a very just one, has not received the assent of the civilized Powers, who are able to give to their protests the sanction of force, and as they practice the contrary principle, the nation has to submit to that principle which is based on such a sanction."

Notwithstanding this, a member from the State of Cauca has introduced another law, which has passed the first reading in the House, fixing the status of foreigners, and which contains some articles fully as objectionable as the assumptions in the former law. The aim of all these would-be law-makers, seems to be to force foreign capital, which is increasing so rapidly here, to pay its share of the extraordinary contributions for carrying on "the frequent and ferocious civil wars epidemic in our present social state." I quote from the message; in regard to the United States and "its agents," President Murillo holds this language:

"Although the crime committed on the 14th of April, 1865, in Washington, snatched away from us the virtuous Abraham Lincoln, a good friend and benevolent towards our people, the American Government has continued to treat us with great deference and sympathy. The guarantee of sovereignty and neutrality which it promised us in the treaty of 1846, in exchange for the faculty to pass troops across the Isthmus, has, indeed, offered great difficulties; because not all the agents of that Government in the ports of the Isthmus, and on the Isthmus itself, possess that intelligence and morality which the use of this concession implies. Grave faults have been committed by a soldier and the commander of a war vessel, and also by military, on their transit over the Isthmus, for which, I have not the least doubt, the American Government will give us full satisfaction, adopting for the future such precautions as will prevent their repetition.

This treaty, which contains the guarantee of neutrality and ownership of the Isthmus, and the concession of free transit in favor of the American Government, must expire in the year 1868, if one of the parties should notify the other of it twelve months before the stipulated time. It would be expedient that you discuss now the question as to whether this treaty shall be renewed, in view of the consequences to which it may lead, at a period more or less remote."

The language of the President in regard to United States Government agents "in the ports of the Isthmus and on the Isthmus itself" is directed against Admiral Pearson, Com. McDiarmid, and the United States Consul at Aspinwall, for their action in certain cases effecting American rights and privileges, now being discussed by the two Governments.

President Murillo uses very circumspect language in regard to the South American war with Spain. He clearly is not in favor of Colombia's entering the lists, and in this he is supported by a late vote in Congress. A motion to make common cause with Chili was taken, and a simple and guarded vote of sympathy was passed.

The President-elect, Gen. MOSQUERA, did not arrive at Aspinwall from England on the 10th instant, as it was expected he would. It is now said he was to embark on the 20th of February in his war steamer Columbia, from London for Santa Martha. In case he does not reach Bogota to take his place as President on the 1st of April, Señor ROJAS GARRIDO will supply his place till he arrives.

The American steamship Uncle Sam having got safely off with her 800 tons of cargo for the Spanish fleet, the newspapers are discussing the rights and wrongs of the matter with their accustomed spirit.

The British steamer Talca, on the 12th, took down to Tumaco another large batch of Californians for the Barbacoas gold mines. We have nothing new from those. The previous lot who went down in the Talca administered to the officers thereof rather a left-handed compliment, when they speak in a card of the "unusually kind and liberal treatment they received on the voyage." The St. Louis to-day brings 180 Californians for Barbacoas.

Four of the large steamers of the Liverpool and Aspinwall line of freight steamers have arrived at Aspinwall since my last. The Granadian, 42 days out from Liverpool, has not yet arrived or been heard from.

We have in port the United States double-ender Wateree and the sloop-of-war St. Marys. The gunboat Suwanee left for Callao on the 5th. The flagship Lancaster is daily expected. The gunboat James Adger is at Aspinwall, awaiting her relief, the Florida.

Commander MURRAY, Lieut. W. S. SCHLEY, Acting Master JULIUS NELSON and Acting Ensign WILLIAM NYBORG, at present attached to the Wateree, have been ordered North.

Some of the newspapers hereabouts, following the lead of the New-York Herald, are making a great hullabaloo over the asserted fact that Mr. SEWARD has allowed the Spanish war vessels to refit at the Brooklyn Navy-yard, while he has arrested Senor MACKENNA for attempting to fit out Chilian privateers in New-York. These journals say that in this the United States is doing just what it complained of Great Britain for doing in the case of our great rebellion. The facts are just the reverse. If they had a little more sense or a little more honesty, our detractors would see that Mr. SEWARD'S course in the case of the Spanish frigates, admitting that he has allowed them to refit at Brooklyn, and in stopping the Chilian privateers, is in exact accordance with his doctrine in regard to the British practice. We do not complain of Great Britain that she allowed national war vessels to be refitted in her ports to make war on us; but we complain that she placed Confederate pirates, or privateers — those pirates not being in reality Confederates, but British —on the same footing that she did our men-of-war. If Señor MACKENNA was engaged in New-York in fitting out the Meteor for the Chilian Government, he was doing it under the cover of the American flag, and was intending to man her with American and not Chilian seamen. I take it that if the Chilians should wish to refit one of their regular war vessels at Brooklyn, they would be allowed the same privileges that were accorded to the Spaniards. Privateering is an exceptional mode of warfare, not held to be just or legal by all nations, and each nation may be properly its own judge as to the privileges it will accord it. But I believe that no nation, before Great Britain set the example, ever placed national war vessels on the same footing in its ports that it placed the piratical craft of SEMMES, MAFFIT and WADDELL.

Central America.

The Panama Railroad Company's steamer Guatemala arrived here at 6 this morning from Central American ports. She has dates to 5th March from Guatemala, 7th from Salvador, 9th from Nicaragua and 12th from Costa Rica. All the States were quiet. President CARERA, in Guatemala, was still on his tour through the departments. The Congress of Salvador closed its sessions on the 29th March, after ratifying the treaty between Salvador and Spain. Gen. HERRAN, formerly Colombian Minister to Washington, came passenger on the Guatemala.

THE CINCINNATI FIRE.

Pike's Opera House in Ruins—The Inquirer Newspaper Office Destroyed—Total Loss $2,000,000.

CINCINNATI, Friday, March 23.

Pike's Opera House is in ruins. Portions of the front wall of the building have fallen into Fourth-street, and the entire rear and side walls are a mass of rubbish.

The Inquirer newspaper office, with all its contents, is completely destroyed.

The fire spread across Baker-street to the Adams Express stables, and to several buildings on Third-street, but is now well subdued.

The total loss will reach two millions of dollars.

The loss of Mr. PIKE is estimated at one million, upon which he has insurance of only thirty-eight thousand.

Very little property was saved from the building excepting the money and papers in the office.

The actors lost all their wardrobes.

Adams' Express Company saved their money and valuable packages, but everything else was lost.

Among the sufferers are: R. W. Carroll & Co., book-publishers; Wheeler & Wilson, sewing machines; A. C. Peters & Co., music store; Strowbridge & Gerlach, lithographers; Bryant, Stratton & Dehans, commercial college; Harple's mercantile printing office; F. P. Halby, boots and shoes; Sholmes & Son, paper hangers; H. P. Baldwin, pianos; Niblette & Atkins, eating and drinking saloon; J. W. Langley, cigar dealer, and the Buckeye Billiard Saloon.

The fire broke out about half an hour after the audience had been dismissed. Its origin has not been fully ascertained, although the supposition is that it was occasioned by an explosion of gas.

The fire spread so rapidly that in five minutes after the explosion the whole building was in flames.

The event has somewhat dampened the spirits of the community.

LATER DISPATCH.

CINCINNATI, Friday, March 23.

Adams' Express Company have opened a temporary office at No. 112 West Fourth-street, and are prepared for business. Three carloads of goods, valued at about $150,000, are destroyed by the fire. Their insurance on office fixtures is $35,000. All their horses and wagons were saved.

The Cincinnati Enquirer Company lost about $100,000; insured for $50,000. They had on hand printed matter valued at $50,000, including $18,000 belonging to JOHN ROBINSON'S Circus.

The Buckeye Billiard Saloon lost $10,000; partially insured. BIBLETT & ATKINSON lost $18,000; insured for $10,000. P. W. CARROLL & Co. lost $120,000; insured for $70,000. A. C. PETERS & Co. lost their entire stock of music and musical instruments; damage very heavy; insured for $30,000. Among the articles lost were plates for printing sheet-music, which Mr. PETERS has been gathering for the last forty years. F. P. HALDY lost $15,000; insured for $9,000. HOLMES & Co. lost $40,000; insured for 25,000. D. H. BALDWIN lost twenty-two pianos; partially insured. BRYANT, STRATTON & DEHAN lost $8,000; no insurance. HARPEL lost $8,000; no insurance. STROWBRIDGE & GERLOCH lost $20,000; no insurance. There were a large number of minor losses, including the office of the Daily National Union.

Business on Fourth-street, between Walnut and Vine, is entirely suspended to-day, and the street is blockaded by the falling walls of the Opera House. The streets surrounding the burned square have been thronged with eager spectators throughout the day, and an intense feeling of awe prevails throughout the city over this awful disaster.

The Enquirer Company will resume its daily issue to-morrow.

SPRAGUE'S building, corner of Fourth and Vine, and CARLISLE'S, corner Fourth and Walnut, were not injured.

Fire at Medina, N. Y.

ALBANY, Friday, March 23.

A fire broke out at about 3 o'clock this morning in Medina, Orleans County, in the rear of ALCORN & CLARK'S flour and feed store. The sufferers are J. B. Winchester, meat market; A. Dawson, grocery and liquor store; J. E. Baldwin, boots and shoes; Alcorn & Clark, flour and feed; Dolan & Ross, millinery; Brown's boarding-house and saloon; Davidson & Baldwin, harness-shop; H. C. Lampman, bakery; N. Hosenohr, barber-shop; Mrs. Smith, dress and cloak rooms; Mr. Smith, jeweler and news-room; S. Bouchard, furniture rooms. The goods were mostly saved. The buildings were owned by B. FAIRMAN and Messrs. BROWN & BOOTH, who were insured. The losses of the different store and shop-keepers have not yet been ascertained.

LOUISIANA.

Removal of the Cholera Quarantine—Suicide of the Captain of the Ocean Wave—Cotton Thieving.

NEW-ORLEANS, Thursday, March 22.

Planting is going on rapidly in Louisiana. Sugar and corn are all planted.

The Louisiana and Texas District Courts are easy upon debtors, and prosecutions are few. Important cases of prosecution for non-inscription of mortgages during the late war are being argued. The case of Mrs. Dr. SCOTT, of Nashville, before the Baton Rouge District Court, has been concluded, but not decided.

The steamboat Butler, which was seized at Shreveport on account of the murder on board of negro soldiers, has been released by Gen. CANBY, but thirty of the crew have been detained. All feeling between the people and negro troops on the Red River is believed to have subsided.

Cholera quarantine will be removed from West India and Mexican shipping. The Florida and coastwise shipping has been already relieved. There is no cholera on the Gulf or on the Spanish Main.

The brig Ocean Wave, from the south coast of Cuba, for New-York, put in here leaking bad. The Captain had committed suicide.

FROM SHREVEPORT.

SHREVEPORT, La., Wednesday, March 14, }
Via NEW-ORLEANS, Thursday, March 22. }

The movement of cotton is very slow. Boats are leaving without taking any cargoes. Cotton agents and thieves are prowling about the plantations, and planters are selling their cotton to them at very low rates for fear it will be seized unlawfully by them.

Several commissions have been sent to Washington to get cotton seized by the cotton agents released. Some of these commissions have been successful, and others not.

This cotton-thieving has broken up all business.

Adjournment of the Legislature—Organization of the New-Orleans City Government.

NEW-ORLEANS, Friday, March 23.

The Louisiana Legislature adjourned at midnight last night. It has passed 128 important bills. There is talk of an extra session, but it is believed that the Governor will not call one until after the May election.

The organization of the City Government is proceeding slowly.

The Picayune announces all the charges against TOM PARKER, which caused his rejection as Port Surveyor, as false.

There have been a large number of arrivals here of Northern and Western railroad men.

Major BLOOMFIELD has been appointed Quartermaster-General of Louisiana. He was a Quartermaster in the Confederate service.

TEXAS.

The State Convention.

GALVESTON, Texas, Tuesday, March 20.

There is little of public interest to report to-day.

In the Texas State Convention a Committee of nine has been appointed to prepare an address to President JOHNSON.

A proposition was also offered by Mr. BARNETT, of Union County, to pay the widow of Gen. HOUSTON the full salary he would have received as Governor for the full term, from the time he was dismissed by the Secession Convention.

Soldiers' Mutiny at Galveston.

GALVESTON, Tuesday, March 20.

The Forty-eighth Ohio Regiment have mutinied, saying their time of service is out. So far, over sixty of the men are under arrest. They were taken into custody by the colored troops who now guard Galveston.

FORTRESS MONROE.

Mr. Pepper's Colonization Scheme—The Soldiers' Monument Fund—Sale of Commissary Property.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, March 22.

Mr. CALVIN PEPPER, who was arrested here yesterday, left this morning for Richmond. An investigation is to be immediately made into his colonization scheme by Maj.-Gen. TERRY, at Richmond, and the result will in a few days be made public.

Several prominent citizens of Norfolk called on Mr. PEPPER yesterday afternoon and tendered him their assistance and sympathy. Energetic efforts to obtain the requisite pecuniary assistance are being made by Col. JAMES CURRY, Chaplain JAMES MARSHALL and others connected with the Board appointed to solicit funds and material for the completion of the soldiers' monument proposed to be erected in the large cemetery, about a mile back of the fort, where several thousand soldiers lie buried, who fell in the Peninsula campaign or have since died victims of disease.

About $1,200 have already been subscribed; and all that is needed now to complete the work are proper steps by the Government to secure the land and have it surveyed, preparatory to permanently inclosing the grounds.

A large sale of Commissary property took place here yesterday, under Col. JAMES CURRY. The lots sold comprised a miscellaneous collection of camp-chests, commissary-chests, paulins, dry and liquid measures, meat-saws, knives, cleavers, lanterns, &c., for which good prices were obtained.

FORTRESS MONROE, Friday, March 23.

The steamer Peril, from Mobile for New-York, arrived here short of coal to-day, and reports freights dull.

The coastwise steamer Ceres had left for New-Orleans, and the steamers Mercedita and Gulf Stream were to have started for New-York in ballast.

BOSTON, Friday, March 23.

The steamer Cleopatra, from New-Orleans, arrived to-day. She reports that when thirty miles north of Carysfoot Light she saw a large square-rigged vessel ashore, which apparently had just gone on. She was surrounded by wreckers.

"The Objectionable Printing-Office."

Among the communications sent in to the Metropolitan Board of Health, and reported among its proceedings in the Herald and other papers of Saturday, 10th March inst., preceded by denunciations of "bob veal," "dead horse," unclean yards, &c., appeared this one:

THE OWNER OF A PRINTING ESTABLISHMENT THREATENED BY THE SCALPEL.

NO. 42 FIFTH-AVENUE.

To the Health Commissioners:

GENTLEMEN: For many years past my attention has been directed to the shocking condition of the printing establishment of Messrs. Gray & Green, corner of Frankfort and Jacob sts. These gentlemen have earnestly entreated the owner to permit the iron sashes to be hung on hinges, so that they could be opened and allow a living amount of air to enter; but they have been rudely denied the privilege. I cannot remain ten minutes without great oppression in any room in the establishment; and every one employed shows by his lived hue the deadly effect. Please give it early attention, and you will win the thanks of the firm and every member of the establishment. I design to make the subject of these offices prominent in my next issue of the Scalpel.

EDWARD H. DIXON, M. D.

Not being willing that so remarkable a charge should go to the public uncontradicted by us, we published in the Herald of the 11th and 12th inst. the following advertisement:

VENTILATION.

To the Editor of the New-York Herald:

Do not infer from an article in your paper this morning, signed Edward H. Dixon, M. D., that our office, corner of Jacob and Frankfort sts., is a Black Hole, dangerous for either patrons or employes. His point the Doctor thus states: "These gentlemen (John A. Gray & Green) have earnestly entreated the owner to permit the iron sashes to be hung on hinges, so that they could thus be opened and allow a living amount of air to enter; but they have been rudely denied the privilege." IS THAT SO? Our premises are entirely fire proof, and, like other such premises, lighted by windows with iron sashes. In each window a part—generally at the top and at the bottom also, averaging the size of a usual country wooden sash—freely swings open for the admission of air, and always has since the buildings were erected, ten years ago. The means of ventilation the Doctor represents us as entreating for, our employes have always had: and their "lived hue"—whatever that may be—is not chargeable to windows that cannot be opened.

We employ between 250 and 300 persons in our premises, printing FIFTY-SIX periodicals, and a proportionate amount of book and job work. In the Winter months employes here, as elsewhere, often neglect the means of ventilation at hand, and sacrifice purity of air for the sake of a warmth that shall keep their muscles limber. This is so with us, as it is generally where large numbers of workmen are employed. They do the same probably with the iron swinging sashes here that they do with their wooden rising ones at home. In either case they will often tightly close the means of ventilation. But for all that, our employes will compare not unfavorably with any equal number to be found anywhere, in health, vigor and effectiveness.

What Dr. Dixon suggests was done at the start. We shall be glad to put in operation some further plan that shall give all our premises a pure and warm air, whether men wish it or not. That the Doctor does not help us to.

The Doctor says he "cannot remain ten minutes without great oppression in any room in the establishment." Well, the Scalpel has been printed here, with the exception of a single number elsewhere—an experiment he was loth to repeat—ever since we came into the premises He denounces. He returns again and again, and yet again—often almost daily—to the scene of his "oppression," and takes it in ten-minute doses, doubled and trebled, and even quadrupled, at a gasp. Does he want to provoke a comparison between the good health and ruddy hue of the connection by which he makes his living and that by which we make ours? We trow not.

Our friends must not be frightened from visiting us in the Swamp. Certainly, it is not the Fifth-avenue, nor do we charge Fifth-avenue nor Broadway prices. Our workmen and our customers grow up and grow gently and gracefully to a green old age with us. Dr. Dixon himself could not be hired or driven to go anywhere else, and we have specimens of both classes, still hale and hearty as the Doctor himself, who have been our fast friends and daily helpers for well nigh thirty years, who are equally invincible.

JOHN A. GRAY & GREEN,
Printers, Stereotypers and Binders,
Fireproof Premises, Nos. 16 and 18 Jacob-st.,
Corner of Frankfort-st.

NEW-YORK, March 10, 1866.

Here we had hoped the matter might end. Many of our friends, we soon learned, had seen both the attack and the defence; and to any intelligent person who had read both we were content to leave the whole matter. But we meet with so many who have seen or heard of the denunciation of our building to the Board of Health and the public, who have not seen what we had to say in reply, that we are constrained to republish the two articles; and to add thereto the report of Dr. Newman, the Sanitary Inspector of our District, whose business it became to investigate the charge upon our premises by Dr. Dixon. Here it is, taken from the Tribune of the 17th inst.:

THE OBJECTIONABLE PRINTING-OFFICE.

We give below the report of Dr. Newman, Sanitary Inspector of the First District, upon a complaint against the printing establishment of Messrs. Gray & Green, which was noticed in these columns. The Inspector says:

"The building is entirely fire-proof, six stories high. Each work-room is about 40 by 50 feet, and has nineteen windows with iron sashes, divided on three sides of the room. On the fourth side is a hatchway, which runs longitudinally through the whole building, and, when open, acts as a ventilator. Each window has 40 panes of glass, each 10 by 12 inches. On the top, six of these panes swing open, and, in a similar way, nine panes open on the bottom of the window; therefore, 285 panes in each room open for ventilation, which makes 2,850 square feet. This ventilation is not only a good but a scientific one. The vitiated, carbonized air must necessarily escape through the upper opening, and fresh, cool air enters through the lower passage. The proprietors state that they employ at present 256 persons, male and female. Out of this number, 50 have been in constant employ for the past seven or eight years, not a single death having occurred from disease. The Inspector finds nothing in the premises detrimental to health."

A careful measurement shows that Dr. Newman's statement, conclusive as it seems, is yet far weaker than the actual facts. Two of the nine spacious floors which we occupy on Jacob, Frankfort and Cliff streets, have twenty-four windows of the size described by Dr. N. There are in the premises 279,560 cubic feet of space, divided among about 280 people. This gives to each one an average of 1,000 cubic feet. If with such space and means of ventilation, employment on our premises involves "oppression," "lived hue," and "deadly effect," where in New-York shall a gasping mortal find free breath? In a hotel, at the concert, opera, theatre, or at church? To ask the question is to answer it. Our business is NOT prosecuted in disregard of the requirements of space or ventilation; and we beg our friends to examine for themselves, and see whether, in the very matter where we have been thus assailed, we are not only not open to censure, but on the contrary, are affording our employes means of ventilation in themselves ample, and which it will be no easy matter to find equaled in any manufactory in this metropolis.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC!
DR. VON EISENBERG'S
ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON,
THE CELEBRATED APPARATUS.

From the New-York Express.

So many able and earnest men are devoting themselves to medical investigation, that it would be strange if new discoveries were not made. Among the most brilliant of these—we may indeed say the most brilliant of all—is that of Dr. VON EISENBERG, in regard to the Etherealization of Medicines; we may properly call it the "Spiritualization," since the Latin Spiritus, whence comes our word "Spiritual," signifies primarily, simply "the air."

Many of the most important and vital organs of the human frame cannot be reached by medicines in a solid or even in a liquid form. Thus the lungs are shut up in a bony chest to which access can be had only through the wind-pipe, the opening of which is closed by a valve, called the "epiglottis," so sensitive and so delicately constructed, that it will not allow the passage, except by main force, of the most minute crumb, or the smallest drop of liquid. Every person who has "swallowed the wrong way" the smallest substance, whether of liquid or solid, knows the feeling of strangulation thereby occasioned. A man cannot, if he would, voluntarily swallow any liquid or solid into the lungs, or the passage leading to them. Herein lies the true reason why Consumption has been so incurable.

As to the entire apparatus, we have no hesitation in saying that we regard it as a wonderful invention—one that, were it not so costly, we have little doubt would be adopted by every hospital and medical college in the country. We are satisfied it would well repay, even if he had to journey all the way from Europe, the scientific man to see and examine it. It is a marvel of mechanical complexity, and yet, when its multiform uses are considered, of extreme simplicity and great beauty. That it will in every respect fulfill the expectations of the inventor, we have every reason to believe. It has been constructed with an accurate knowledge of its ultimate uses. One so experienced in the specialties for which it is particularly intended as is Dr. Von Eisenberg, and for which he has long felt the necessity in his practice, could make no failure. With it he is enabled to surmount obstacles that were hitherto deemed all but impossible to control. He can now approach with certainty and diagnose thoroughly every disease that, in the course of his extended practice, he aims to master. To those, therefore, who are in any way afflicted with loss of sight or hearing, with catarrh, bronchitis, chest or lung diseases, we earnestly suggest a visit to the consulting apartments of Dr. VON EISENBERG. There he will be speedily made to know the possibility of a cure in even complicated cases. We hereto observe that the apparatus is intended also to bring the etherealized medicines into direct action upon the nerves. The nervous system is the source of many diseases. All physicians admit this, and all profess at least to be able to apply a remedy. The Allopathic, Homeopathic and Hydropathic, by prescribing opiates, anodynes, &c., may, and do, alleviate the pain arising from impaired or diseased nerves; but this does not restore the nerve, it is only temporary relief—a relief, too, to some one nerve at the expense of the entire system. The Æsthetico-Neuralgicon of Dr. Von Eisenberg not merely allays the irritation, but restores the nerve to its normal condition. The Doctor's theory is, that each nerve has a specific office, and has its own peculiar susceptibility. Thus, for example, the nerve of vision is insensible to touch; and, on the other hand, the nerve of touch is insensible to light, and so on through the whole system.

From the Journal of Commerce.

We think it is but just to Dr. Von Eisenberg to call public attention to him. There are hundreds in the community suffering from catarrh, if not actually praying for death, who are ready to accept of anything that promises to relieve them from their distresses. To such we would say, trifle not with inexperienced men, but consult, without unnecessary delay, Dr. Von Eisenberg, who, at least, has the honesty to assure his patients whether it is in his power to make them whole or not.

HEARING RESTORED BY A SINGLE APPLICATION OF THE ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON.
READ! READ!

NEW-YORK, May 4, 1865.

I have been induced, by the great number of certificates continually published in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's skill, to apply to him for advice concerning my deafness of many years' standing. I placed myself under his care, and to my utmost delight he made me hear perfectly well by a single painless application of Dr. Von Eisenberg's "Æsthetico-Neuralgicon." I have great pleasure in being able to state that his skill in restoring hearing surpasses anything I ever saw or heard of. His attention to the patient is highly commendable.

JOHN WAKELY, No. 104 Monroe-st.

MIRACULOUS CURE OF THE CHRONIC CATARRH, ASSUMING THE FORM OF CONSUMPTION.

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, and a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were continually obstructed with a pouring of fluid. I had frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, generally attended with spitting of blood. I have been treated by many eminent physicians without success. Recently the Catarrh became so offensive that I could not go into society. Hearing of DR. VON EISENBERG'S new invention, I thought I would apply to him as a last resource. Having been satisfied with his diagnosis, I submitted to his treatment, and have every reason to be abundantly satisfied, as I am completely cured, and my health so much renovated that I feel better than I felt for the last fifteen years. It is a blessing that experience gives the Doctor the power to restore such a shattered constitution to perfect vigor. I now feel very happy to be able to give this testimonial in favor of Dr. Von Eisenberg's inimitable skill.

FREDERICK DOUGLAS,
Meserole-av.,
Greenpoint, Long Island.

RESTORATION OF SIGHT.

I, Lawrence Grenna, No. 186 East 36th-st., New-York City, have been suffering from blindness of the left eye for a considerable period. The eye was continually in a state of great inflammation, from which the good eye became affected, and, indeed, my general health was greatly injured by it. Hearing of Dr. Von Eisenberg's great reputation, and as every one said mine was a hopeless case, I called on the Doctor, who, after examining me, undertook my case, and within a fortnight I found myself almost completely cured. It is now a month since I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's treatment, and I am happy to be able to state that the inflammation is entirely gone, so that I see perfectly with both eyes, added to which I am in good health—a blessing I have not enjoyed since I was blind. I do conscientiously and gratefully swear to the above statement, in a court of justice, at the City Hall of the City of New-York, the 10th day of October, 1864.

LAWRENCE GRENNA.

Sworn before me this 10th day of October, 1864.

MR. EDMUND YATES' FIRST NOVEL,
BROKEN TO HARNESS.

The London Athenæum, the highest literary authority, says of it:

"It is a first-rate novel; and a better work of fiction has not come under our notice.

Taken as a whole, it is a Man's novel, dealing far more with Bohemia, club-rooms, and masculine absurdities, than with the refinements and graces of Woman's life.

But, though it is a 'Man's novel,' Women will relish it; for throughout its diverse scenes, there is a chivalric and unobtrusive recognition of feminine goodness. Moreover, there is not, even in its revelations of Bohemia, a single line that will raise a blush, or jar upon the sensitive ear."

All the booksellers sell it in New-York.

PUBLISH THIS DAY:
I.
HISTORY OF FRIEDRICH THE SECOND,
CALLED
FREDERICK THE GREAT.
BY THOMAS CARLYLE.
In six volumes. Vol. VI.
12mo. cloth, $2 per volume.

Probably the History of Frederick will forever remain one of the finest pieces of literary painting, as well as one of the most marvelous attempts at special pleading extant in our own or any language.—London Spectator.

Mr. Carlyle has at last completed his graven image and sets it up for the admiration of the world, and, with that amazing fancy for hero-worship in which he excels would force us to believe his paragon all that he paints him; and there is certainly power in the picture. The old records have been most thoroughly sifted by Carlyle, who seems to have eliminated every grain of wheat from bushels of chaff.—Examiner and Chronicle.

II.
A TEXT-BOOK ON PHYSIOLOGY.
BEING AN ABRIDGMENT OF THE AUTHOR'S LARGER WORK ON HUMAN PHYSIOLOGY.
By JOHN W DRAPER, M.D., LL.D.,
Author of a "Treatise on Human Physiology," a "History of the Intellectual Development of Europe," &c.
Illustrated with nearly 150 Wood Engravings.
12mo, Cloth, $1 50.

A desire has frequently been expressed by professors and teachers who have used my large work on "Human Physiology" that I should publish an abstract of it, suitable for use as an elementary text-book in colleges and schools. I have accordingly in this work endeavored to satisfy that wish, and to furnish a book sufficiently simple and compendious for such general use, and yet representing the state of the science at the present day.—Extract from the Preface.

NEW BOOKS.
Published This Day,
ST. MARTIN'S SUMMER.
BY ANNE H. M. BREWSTER,
Author of "Compensation," &c. One vol., 16mo. $2 25.

"St. Martin's Summer" is the journal of a residence in Italy, and of a voyage through the Mediterranean. It is more concerned, however, with inner experiences than outward observation. Instead of feelings and emotions described at second hand, the anatomist of the human heart is presented with some new secrets of that mysterious inner world, while the artist gets fresh glimpses of the might of music, painting and architecture, as interpreters of thoughts which the tongue is powerless to convey. The sights and sounds encountered, the love-making of certain young people in the party, various rides in the country—in short, all little incidents which fall out in daily life—serve but to suggest some original reflection, or to recall some apt utterance of the masters of literature. The account of life in Naples—the life of the refined and cultivated—is excellent from first to last. * * Another pleasant feature in the book is the charming manner in which the birth and growth of first love in a youthful maiden's heart of hearts are here duly chronicled."—Philadelphia Press.

GEOLOGICAL SKETCHES.
BY L. AGASSIZ.
With fine Portrait and numerous Illustrations.
1 vol, 16mo. $2 25.

CONTENTS:
America the Old World.
The Silurian Beach.
The Fern Forests of the Carboniferous Period.
Mountains and their Origin.
The Growth of Continents.
The Geological Middle Age.
The Tertiary Age, and its Characteristic Animals.
The Formation of Glaciers.
Internal Structure and Progression of Glaciers.
External Appearance of Glaciers.

The three concluding chapters on Glaciers are introduced with special reference to their geological significance, and they naturally lead to a discussion of all the facts connected with the ice period; the erratic boulders, the drift, the formation of river systems, ancient lake and river terraces—all the phenomena, in short, resulting from the former presence of such immense masses of ice and their subsequent disappearance, which present quite a different aspect here from what they do in the Old World, owing to the extensive land surfaces on this Continent.

This volume discusses, in a popular and attractive manner, yet with thorough scientific accuracy, some of the most interesting questions in Geology.

Either of these books sent, postpaid, on receipt of price.

In this instrument—the largest in the world—are combined the most modern improvements made in the construction of organs. It achieved the unprecedented triumph of obtaining the first Prize Medal at the great London exhibition of 1862. In sweetness and brilliancy of tone it surpasses anything of the kind ever presented to the public and is the wonder and astonishment of all connoisseurs of the musical art. It combines all the qualities of the most powerful orchestra, being composed of over nine hundred instruments all harmonizing to satisfy the most scrupulous ear.

It has been put up under the personal surveillance of the builder, who accompanied the instrument from Europe. Nothing will be wanting to insure the personal comfort of the visitors. The private entrance is at the south corner of the Atlantic Garden. Respectfully,
KRAMER, HAMBRECHT & CO.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"Every line from the pen of Dr. Dixon is of value to the whole human family."—Horace Greeley.

"The Editor takes his stand with the conservative men of the day. He is universally known as a surgeon of great practical tact; his journal is unlike any thing in the literature of the day; in didactic power he has no equal, and he seems actuated by one motive—the good of the people."—N. Y. Daily Times.

"Dr. Dixon is an earnest and thorough practitioner of science; he is a man of the greatest capacity to teach; every word is weighty with meaning."—N. Y. Com. Advertiser.

"He has given us a most instructive and useful number. His extraordinary knowledge of the bibliography of these deeply interesting subjects (of such profound consequence to the whole human race) is only equaled by his great practical tact as a surgeon. A pupil of the great Nestor of Surgery, Mott, and that most skillful and eloquent man, the late George Macartney Bushe, he has added an experience of thirty years to his capacity for treating this subject. As a practical cautionary and moral work for the thoughtless, it does equal honor to the head and heart of the author."—New-York Evening Post.

"The author's acknowledged originality and thorough devotion to the rational principles of medicine, and his ingenuity under trying surgical circumstances, stamp his works with more than ordinary interest."—Boston Medical and Surgical Journal.

Nos. 45 and 46 contain the celebrated articles on Tobacco and its Influence on the American Man.

THE ARTISTS OF THE OPERA TO MASON & HAMLIN.

The very extensive reputation which the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs have acquired, is the result, in large measure, we think, of their great superiority in quality of tone to all other instruments of this class, which is obvious to every cultivated ear. We know not what peculiar secret or skill these makers possess, but certainly we have not heard such pure musical tones from any other reed instruments either of American or European manufacture. For other improvements effected by Mason & Hamlin, they deserve much credit, and their Cabinet Organs must come into very wide use by artists. We should not think of selecting any other instrument of this class for our own use.

STEINWAY & SONS' GRAND, SQUARE AND UPRIGHT PIANOFORTES

Have taken thirty-two First Premiums Gold and Silver Medals, at the principal fairs held in this country within the last ten years, and in addition thereto they were awarded a First Prize Medal at the Great International Exhibition in London, 1862, in competition with 269 Pianos from all parts of the world.

That the great superiority of these instruments is now universally conceded is abundantly proven by the fact that Messrs. Steinway's "scales, improvements and peculiarities of construction" have been copied by the great majority of the manufacturers of both hemispheres (as closely as could be done without infringement of patent rights) and that their instruments are used by the most eminent pianists of Europe and America, who prefer them for their own public and private use, whenever accessible.

STEINWAY & SONS direct special attention to their PATENT AGRAFFE ARRANGEMENT, which, having been practically tested in all their Grand and highest priced Square Pianos, and admitted to be one of the greatest improvements of modern times, will hereafter be introduced in every piano manufactured by them without increase of cost to the purchaser, in order that all their patrons may reap its benefit.

STEINWAY & SONS' PIANOS are the only American instruments exported to Europe in large numbers, and used in European concert rooms.

PRINTING.

Mr. Laflin, from the Committee on Printing, reported back the Senate joint resolution in relation to the publication of the laws of the United States, which was considered and passed.

THE AMERICAN FOREST TREE COMPANY.

Mr. Morris introduced a bill donating public lands to the "American Forest Tree Propagation and Land Company," for conducting experiments respecting forest tree culture, calculated to prevent the destruction and encourage the production of forests in America. Read twice and referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

A CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, called up his motion to reconsider the vote by which the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution was, on the 13th of March, recommitted to the Committee on the Judiciary. The question being taken by tellers, the vote was not reconsidered. Ayes 44, nays 48.

THE PENNSYLVANIA REIMBURSMENT BILL.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, Mr. Washburne, of Illinois, in the Chair, and resumed the consideration of the bill to reimburse the State of Pennsylvania for moneys advanced to the Government for war purposes.

The pending question was an amendment offered by Mr. Hale to strike out the words "advanced at the request of the Government for the payment of troops in the service of the United States, under an express promise of repayment," and to insert in lieu thereof the words "expended for payment of militia in the service of the United States."

Mr. Stevens said he thought that the amendment would improve the bill.

The amendment was agreed to.

Mr. Stevens appealed to Mr. Blaine to withdraw his substitute, and let the bill go to the House.

Mr. Blaine stated that he had been desired by many friends of his substitute not to embarrass one bill by uniting it with the other; and, as he did not wish to do so, he would withdraw his amendment.

The Committee rose and reported the bill and amendments to the other House, and the previous question was moved and seconded.

Mr. Broomall advocated the passage of the bill.

Mr. Morrill characterized the bill as an old acquaintance, and suggested that it should be recommitted and to the Committee of Military Affairs, with instructions to report a bill on general principles, by which similar claims of other States could be adjusted.

Mr. Randall, of Pennsylvania, supposed that the gentleman from Vermont (Mr. Morrill) having characterized it as an old acquaintance, had accorded to it a full examination. He was not fearful of any scrutiny or examination that could be made. It was a just claim; in fact it was an obligation due to Pennsylvania by the United States Government. Its rejection would savor of repudiation. Still, he thought it right that every examination should be made into it; and, therefore, if the gentleman who had charge of the bill (Mr. Stevens) desired that it should go to the Committee of Military Affairs, for further consideration—

Mr. Stevens—No, Sir; the House knows all about it.

Mr. Boyer spoke in support of the bill. Like his colleague, (Mr. Broomall,) he, too, had been a Captain of these troops; his sword was quite as bloodless and his heart quite as loyal. He thought he could answer any reasonable objection to the passage of the bill. The claims rested on a contract based on the express pledges of the President of the United States and the Secretary of War. Pennsylvania had paid every dollar, and was now here asking the amount to be refunded to her. It, therefore, touched the credit and honor of the General Government. It was too late to raise the plea that those troops had not been mustered into the service of the United States, for two reasons: first, because their services had been accepted; and second, because after the rebel raid had been repelled, the President of the United States and the Secretary of War had given their pledges that the money should be paid. It was a slander to say that those troops had refused to cross the State lines.

Mr. Rogers stated that some of the troops of New-Jersey had not been paid.

Mr. Stevens replied that he had produced evidence from the War Department positively asserting that they had been paid.

Mr. Rogers said that a certain amount had been paid, but there was still $108,000 due. The claim had been sent to him last Winter, with specification of items. He did not know how much had been paid, but he knew that that balance was still due. He was aware that the City of New-York had also a claim due to her, and Missouri was in the same situation.

THE LOAN BILL.

Mr. Morrill, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported back the Loan Bill with amendments, and the following proviso:

Provided, that of United States notes not more than ten millions of dollars may be retired and canceled within six months from the passage of this act, and thereafter not more than four millions of dollars in any one month.

The following new section was reported to be added to the bill:

That the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress, at the commencement of the next session, the amount of exchanges made, or money borrowed under this act, and of whom, and on what terms, and the amount and character of indebtedness retired under this act, and the act to which this is an amendment, with a detailed statement of the expense of making such loans and exchanges.

The House resolved itself into Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union, Mr. Rollins in the chair, and proceeded to the consideration of the bill and amendments. The House having ordered all general debate to close in ten minutes, Mr. Morrill addressed the committee. He said that as the bill had undergone a long and patient discussion, it was not necessary now to travel over the same ground again. The bill had been recommitted without instructions to the Committee of Ways and Means, but the Committee had regarded the fact of recommitment as instructions to a certain extent, and had acted in harmony with that view. If the law, as proposed to be amended, were passed, a period of nine years would ensue before the retirement of the legal-tenders now in circulation. That limitation he believed went as far as a large majority of the House was in favor of. If the views of the Secretary of the Treasury were of any importance, he would ask to be read a letter which he had this morning received.

The letter was read.

Mr. Morrill continued—If there was any apprehension that it was the purpose of the Secretary of the Treasury to contract too rapidly, by retiring large amounts of legal-tenders, the letter just read should remove that apprehension. The amendment had been proposed in a spirit of compromise. It would not allow unlimited discretion to the Secretary of the Treasury, and on the other hand it would utterly trammel and fetter him. He hoped the amendment would prove acceptable to all his friends on this side of the House, and that they would not be opposed by the gentlemen on the other side. He would deem it a compliment to the American Congress if it could consider financial questions irrespective of party.

Mr. Eldridge inquired how much the bill authorized the Secretary to retire, and whether in its retirement he was limited to greenbacks and legal-tenders.

Mr. Morrill replied that the Senator was limited to legal-tenders, commonly called greenbacks.

Mr. Eldridge inquired whether it would not have the effect to limit him in the retirement of interest-bearing notes as now authorized.

Mr. Morrill—Not at all.

Mr. Lawrence, of Ohio, opposed the bill as still giving the Secretary too much authority. He might retire the $180,000,000 of compound interest notes and $34,000,000 of legal-tenders within the next year, thus contracting the currency $214,000,000 in a year.

Mr. Lynch moved to amend the amendment by adding the following: "And no United States notes shall be retired and canceled until all the interest-bearing Treasury notes now outstanding are funded." He understood that the Secretary of the Treasury did not propose to and could not retire more than $180,000,000 of compound interest notes for the next two years. Did the House want to anticipate any further than that time? The Secretary did not deem it prudent to fund more than one hundred millions a year; and the first indebtedness to be funded was the compound interest notes which were not legal tender, except for their face.

Mr. Alley was opposed to the amendment of the gentleman from Maine, because he was in favor of contraction, and that amendment would prevent any contraction of the currency. No man was more anxious or solicitous on the subject than he.

Mr. Lynch withdrew his amendment. It was renewed by Mr. Kelly, who said, referring to the resolution offered by Mr. Alley early in the session, that he had voted for the resolution of the gentleman from Massachusetts, [under the delusion that contraction must be] the way to the resumption of specie payment. But to-day the country was on the high road to resumption. The House had been told that the volume of currency was increasing, and the gentleman from Ohio (Mr. Garfield) had talked of the large amount of gold in the country and of the balance of trade being in our favor. But yet with all that prices were daily depreciating, viz: the prices of labor, of commodities, of gold—showing that the currency was not inflated, but that the country was on the high and successful road to an early resumption of specie payment without a crisis, but now it was proposed to alarm and paralyze the business of the country by placing the control of it in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury. He (Kelley) had great confidence in the present incumbent, but he did not know who might be his successor in the event of his death or resignation. He would not invest any man with the power to stop or expand the business of the country, to quicken or dull it any day he pleased. The bill proposed to do the absurd thing of taking up the non-interest bearing debt by borrowing money at six per cent., the effect of which would be to close our factories, our forges, our furnaces, and paralyze all the business of the country. He regarded the bill as full of peril. Its tendencies were to retard the resumption of specie payment, to close mines and factories, to turn many of the laboring people into paupers, and make all become close economists.

Mr. Hooper inquired of his colleague, Mr. Alley, as to the effect of the resolution he had offered at the commencement of the session.

Mr. Alley replied that it merely contemplated the pledging of Congress to coöperative action with the Secretary of the Treasury in the views he had expressed in his annual report.

Mr. Hooper inquired further whether his colleague thought that those who were opposed to the bill as it stood were expressing an opinion that it was inexpedient to resume specie payment.

Mr. Alley replied that he understood the effect of his colleague's (Hooper's) amendment would be to prevent contraction and the resumption of specie payment. Resumption could not be effected except by contraction. He was therefore opposed to the amendment of his colleague.

Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, inquired whether the laws of trade were not now carrying the country toward the resumption of specie payment as fast as was satisfactory to the Secretary himself.

Mr. Alley replied that that might be so.

Mr. Kelley's amendment was rejected.

Mr. Sloan moved to amend by adding a proviso that all bonds or other obligations should be payable in lawful money of the United States. He wished the European demand for our bonds to cease, and the adoption of this amendment would produce that result.

Mr. Griswold concurred with the gentleman from Wisconsin (Sloan) in the object of his resolution, but differed with him as to the mode of effecting the desired object. The proper way was for Congress to legislate in such a way as to prevent the country being flooded with foreign importations, which our bonds went abroad to pay.

Mr. Wentworth remarked that there were importers now in the House lobbying for the passage of Mr. Hooper's bill.

Mr. Griswold went on to show that the importations in January, 1866, were 150 per cent. more than in the corresponding month last year, and that up to the 1st of March the importations were six times as large as in the corresponding time last year. The country was being flooded with foreign goods at the rate of five hundred millions a year. Our foreign indebtedness to-day was not less than $1,500,000,000 and would be $2,000,000,000 within the next sixty or ninety days. He argued that the Secretary had now sufficient power to contract the currency; besides, there was a great deal of delusion about the idea of an expanded currency. Everyone believed it proper to get back as rapidly as possible to specie payment; but there were worse things than the deferring of specie payment. He was in favor of it, but in arriving at that point he was opposed to any policy that would crush out and destroy the industrial interests of the country. He would clothe no man, not even the present Secretary of the Treasury, with such powers as this bill would clothe him with. There was nothing unreasonable in the Secretary's being required to fund the interest-bearing notes before disturbing the mere circulating medium of the country. Previous to the war the circulating medium was $560,000,000; and now, under the most expanded condition of things, under the present law, it could only be $750,000,000.

The amendment was rejected.

Mr. Farquhar moved a proviso that the legal-tender notes known as "greenbacks" should be diminished below the amount now in circulation. He proclaimed that he had unlimited confidence in the Secretary of the Treasury, and was willing to give evidence of that confidence. Congress would convene again in eight months from this time, and during the interval the Secretary could only diminish the currency to the extent of eighteen millions under this bill. He appealed to members to stand by the Administration in the hour of its financial struggle, and to place in the hands of the Secretary of the Treasury this power.

Mr. Wentworth supported the bill because he believed the Secretary had the greatest battle to fight that any man had ever been called upon to fight. This measure had been reported back as a compromise. To vote it down now would be equivalent to vote a want of confidence in the Chairman of the Committee of Ways and Means and in the Speaker who appointed him, and in the House which elected the Speaker. [Laughter.] The real difference between the proposition of the Committee of Ways and Means and that of the gentleman from Massachusetts, (Mr. Hooper,) was the difference between paying six per cent. in interest and paying twenty-five per cent. on account of depreciation of the currency. It was a question between paper money and hard money; between the disciples of Jackson and of Hamilton.

Mr. Farquhar withdrew his amendment.

Mr. Moorhead renewed it. He said that he differed with the gentleman from Illinois (Mr. Wentworth) in regard to the mode of reaching the resumption of specie payment. He did not believe that that was to be attained by making a stringent currency which would create distress among the industrial classes. Therefore, he had voted against this bill when it was up before. He was opposed to reducing the currency, but thought that this bill limited the Secretary's power sufficiently. Under it the business of the country would not suffer violence. He believed, with Mr. Griswold, that Congress was legislating at the wrong end, and that the proper way was to adopt measures that would restrain excessive importations. He withdrew the amendment.

The Committee rose to close debate, while in the House the evening session was dispensed with.

The session of to-morrow was restricted to general debate on the President's message, and a motion to adjourn, made by Mr. Stevens, was negatived, 60 to 65.

All debate was ordered to close in ten minutes, and the House went back into Committee of the Whole.

Mr. Hooper moved to amend the bill by substituting the following:

Be it enacted, &c., That the act entitled "An Act to provide ways and means to support the Government," approved March 3, 1865, shall be extended and construed to empower the Secretary of the Treasury to sell any description of bonds authorized by said act, at such rates, not less than par, as he may think advisable, for lawful money of the United States, or to receive in payment any Treasury notes, compound interest notes, certificates of indebtedness, or of deposit, with the interest accrued thereon, which have been, or which may be issued under any act of Congress. It shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to retire and cancel an amount of the Treasury notes, certificates, or other obligations bearing interest, equal in amount to the bonds disposed of, and the public debt shall not hereafter be increased by authority of this or any previous acts of Congress, and from and after the 1st day of July next, the interest on certificates of deposit for temporary loans shall not exceed the annual rate of five per centum.

He protested against the idea which had been urged in the House that any person who voted against withdrawing greenbacks from circulation before the withdrawal of interest-bearing notes, was opposed to the resumption of specie payment. He claimed to be as strongly in favor of such resumption at the earliest practicable moment as any member of the House. His substitute differed from the bill reported by the Committee on two points. The latter placed no limit on the rate at which the Secretary might issue bonds. His substitute restricted him to par. The second difference was in relation to the withdrawal of the legal tender currency.

Mr. Hooper explained the difference between the two propositions in that respect. In this connection he had read a letter from the Secretary to the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, dated Jan. 22, stating that the proviso in the act of March 3, 1865, simply authorized the Secretary, with the consent of the holders, to convert Treasury notes or other obligations bearing interest, into any description of bonds authorized by that act, and that he was of the opinion that the word "convert" was synonymous with the word "exchange," so that he did not feel at liberty under that act to sell bonds for national currency notes, and to use the proceeds in retiring interest-bearing obligations. The two amendments reported by the Committee of Ways and Means were agreed to.

Mr. Allison moved to amend by inserting the words "at not less than par." The amendment was rejected.

The question recurring on Mr. Hooper's substitute, the vote was taken by tellers, and the substitute was rejected by a vote of 60 to 74.

The Committee then rose and reported the bill and amendments to the House.

Mr. Stevens moved to adjourn, and called for the yeas and nays. The motion was lost.

Mr. Morrill moved the previous question, which was seconded.

The two amendments reported were severally agreed to.

Mr. Bingham moved to lay the bill and amendments on the table, and called for the yeas and nays.

The House refused to order the yeas and nays.

The question being on the passage of the bill as amended, Mr. Wilson, of Iowa, demanded the yeas and nays, which were ordered.

The vote was then taken, and resulted in 83 yeas against 53 nays. So the bill was passed.

The following is the vote in detail.

Yeas—Messrs. Allen, Ancona, Anderson, Ashley, Baldwin, Banks, Barker, Baxter, Bergen, Biglow, Blaine, Boger, Brooks, Conkling, Cullom, Darling, Dawes, Dawson, Donnelly, Eldridge, Eliot, Farnsworth, Farquhar, Finck, Garfield, Glossbrenner, Grider, Hale, Harding, Hogan, Holmes, Hubbard, James M. ## FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

Animated Discussion on the New Capitol Bill—Narrow Escape From Defeat—Albany Probably Triumphant.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Friday, March 23.

The House has been in session till near midnight, amid the greatest excitement, over the new Capitol bill. Powerful speeches have been made by Speaker Tremaine in favor of, and by D. P. Wood against the bill.

Littlejohn advocated an amendment, locating the Capitol at Albany, but prohibiting the commencement of the work till a future Legislature makes an appropriation. Finally, on call of the yeas and nays, the House refused to grant leave to sit again, (which was in effect killing the bill,) by a vote of 49 to 55. Mr. Lyons moved to reconsider, and to lay that motion on the table. The motion was laid on the table by a vote of 58 to 45. So the bill still has vitality, and, it is not difficult to foresee, will ultimately pass.

OUR ALBANY LETTER.

The Pro-Rata Freight Bill in the House—The Canal Repair Bill—Broadway Elevated Railroads—The New Capitol Bill—New-York and Brooklyn Passenger and Baggage Bill—Courts of Special Sessions in New-York—The New-York Collectorship.

ALBANY, Friday, March 23, 1866.

The Pro-rata Freight Bill, introduced by Mr. Andreas, of Monroe, was under discussion in the Assembly last night. This bill provides that no way freight shall be detained awaiting shipment more than six days after its delivery, except with the owner's consent, or in case of flood or unavoidable accident. The prices charged for transporting way freight are fixed at certain specified rates per mile, a small advance being allowed for short distances, with twenty cents per ton additional charge for loading and unloading. Heavy penalties are attached to violations of the law. After some fillibustering over the question, Mr. Weed, of Clinton, spoke at length in opposition to the bill, and Mr. Ranney, of Onondaga, in its support. Mr. Wilber, of Dutchess, spoke with much earnestness in favor of the bill, taking occasion to make some very serious charges against the Hudson River Railroad in the matter of their freight tariff, asserting that it seemed to be arranged with the express object of discriminating against local freight, and crippling business along the line of the road.

To the surprise of every one, the House ordered the bill to a third reading by the decisive vote of 72 to 9. Unless some extraordinary change takes place, the bill will get through the House and go to the Senate.

The substitute for the Canal Contract Bill, introduced in the Senate by Mr. Parsons, an abstract of which important measure I sent in a previous letter, has been adopted by the Senate, and is likely to pass that body. The bill is one of great importance to all persons interested in the canals and their management, making, as it does, a complete revolution in the manner of repairing these channels and keeping them in order, creating still another State officer, who is to hold office for a period of five years.

The numerous applicants for grants to run elevated railways in Broadway, are in great distress at present over the omission of the Legislature to forward their views. They have taken the alarm in consequence of an expression in the Times' correspondence that none of the bills presented for this purpose are likely to become laws, and are eagerly button-holing members, and insisting that their schemes have not been treated with that consideration which is due to the magnitude of the subject and the pressing necessities of the would-be grantees. One of these projects, engineered by Messrs. A. N. Cole, George M. Van Hoesen and William H. Albertson, which contemplates a corrugated iron railway, proposes to resort to the desperate measure of introducing a resolution to compel the Railroad Committee to report their bill, or rather to discharge the Committee and refer to the Committee of the Whole, which amounts to the same thing in effect as a favorable report. What will come of it remains to be seen, though I still adhere to the opinion that Broadway merchants need not fear that cars will run above terra firma through that great thoroughfare by any act of the present Legislature.

The Capitol Bill is again the special order for to-night. The Albanians are exceedingly clamorous and persistent in advocating the bill, and it is charged upon them that they are bringing "material aid" to bear to forward their purposes. It is certain that they are gaining ground, and that some members who have heretofore opposed the measure have become suddenly convinced of its necessity. A fortnight ago, the bill would have been defeated by a large majority, had a vote been taken at that time, but Albany certainly gains by every day's delay, and may possibly secure enough votes to accomplish its purpose.

The New York and Brooklyn Passenger and Baggage Bill, to which I recently alluded, passed the Senate today by a vote of 21 to 7. It now goes to the House.

A bill is pending in the Assembly to repeal the act creating a Court of Special Sessions in the City of New-York, over which the metropolitan delegation have several times come in collision. This morning Mr. J. L. Parker moved to recommit the bill, with power to report complete. T. E. Stewart opposed the motion vigorously, and Mr. Creamer favored it. After a lengthy discussion over the merits of the present system, during which Mr. Parker charged the Justices with using their position for base partisan purposes, and Mr. Stewart denied the allegation, the motion was carried, 54 to 43. The final passage of the bill, however, is exceedingly doubtful.

In mentioning a rumor about the New-York Collectorship, in a recent letter, I stated that James B. Gregg, of Elmira, was a prominent candidate, according to a letter from Washington. The name should have been Isaac B. Gregg. The gentleman formerly resided in Elmira, and is now in the New-York Custom-house, as I understand. As to the correctness of the rumor that makes him the candidate most like to succeed, I cannot undertake to vouch.

LAW REPORTS.

The Case of the Meteor.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT.

Before Judge Betts

In the United States District Court, yesterday, in the case of the United States vs. the steamship Meteor, her tackle, &c., Judge Betts pronounced the following important decision:

On the 23d day of January, 1866, the United States Attorney for this district filed in this court a libel of information against the above-named vessel, charging that the said vessel had been fitted out to commit hostilities against the Government of Spain, in violation of the neutrality act of Congress of 1818. On the succeeding day the attorney filed an amended libel of information, in the same cause, charging and detailing the misdemeanors imputed to the same ship specifically and minutely. On the filing of the original libel there was issued out of the clerk's office of this Court, under the seal of the Court, addressed to the Marshal of the district, a monition and warrant of attachment, returnable in Court on the 13th day of February next thereafter, on which day the said process was duly returned in Court, served by the Marshal. On the 11th day of March inst., counsel for the claimants of the said vessel made application by a summary and non-enumerated motion to the Court, for an order to appoint appraisers in the above cause, to appraise the said ship; and upon the filing of a bond or stipulation for the amount of such appraised value, to deliver possession of the vessel to the said claimants. On looking at the papers on file, the summary motion now pressed to hearing by the claimants appears under the circumstances of the case, according to the strict rules of practice, to be premature in point of order, exceptive allegations having been previously taken by the United States Attorney to the competency of the claimants to intervene in this matter. But the counsel for the claimants, urging the immediate hearing of his special motion, and the United States Attorney waving all objection to such immediate hearing, the parties proceeded to discuss the questions raised on the application made by the claimants to have appraisers appointed to value the steamship and to have her restored to the claimants on bail according to the usual course of procedure in Courts of Admiralty and maratime jurisdiction in seizure cases. The cause was presented to the court in maintenance of the propositions of law insisted upon by the counsel for the claimants as recognized or established by statutory law, and the standing rules and adjudications of the courts of the United States, with great force and efficiency, and I perceive no ground to question at this day that it is within the ordinary usage of the United States Courts, authorized and sanctioned by statutory enactments and by the standing rules of the several courts of the United States in the exercise of their several functions in banco, or by the judges separately out of court, to bail personal property seized under process in rem, issued out of courts of civil and admiralty jurisdiction, and deliver the res into the possession of the proper claimant, on security approved by the judicial authority having cognizance of the subject matter. The attributes inherent in the Civil and Admiralty Court of England were originally of like extent, though in modern times they have fallen into disuse, probably under the overshadowing influence of the Courts of common law. (2 Browne's Civil and Adm. Law, 435.) It seems to me, then, that the sole question of difficulty in principle subsisting in this case is whether the Court is bound by positive law on a final course of pratice and usage established by authority of the judiciary equivalent in force to a direct enactment of Congress to deliver the ship to the claimants on bail, or whether the delivery on bail is subject to the judicial discretion of the Court. I feel persuaded that the sound construction of all the regulations in this behalf prescribed by the Supreme Court of the United States or by Circuit or District Court within this district, and all the doctrines adopted by those courts on that branch of practice have been carried into execution on the understanding that the power and trust to bail property held under seizure in a court of civil and admiralty jurisdiction in an action of tort or one of contract where opposition is made thereto lies exclusively within the judicial discretion of the court. (Dunlap, Adm., Pr., 2d edit. 181. The brig Struggle, 1 Gall. 476. The George 2d, 249. Lane vs. Townsend, Ware, 2d edit. 289.) The act of March 3, 1847, (U. S. Statutes at large, 181,) entitled "an act for the reduction of the costs and expenses of proceedings in admiralty against ships and vessels was cited by the counsel for the claimants as imposing on the court the imperative duty of delivering up the vessel on bail. But the Court is of opinion that that statute is by its express terms limited in its operation to cases in admiralty in which the libellant seeks to recover a money demand, and has no application to cases like that now before the court. If the whole question as to the delivery of the vessel on bail in the present case was one merely of judicial discretion I should have great hesitation in acceding to the application of the claimants at the present time in so grave a case as that disclosed in the libel of information. The importance of a due and proper enforcement of the neutrality laws of the United States is so great that no course of procedure ought to be adopted by the Court which would afford an opportunity for a repetition of the offences charged against a particular vessel, at least until the public authorities have been afforded a reasonable time to substantiate, through a judicial trial, their allegations against such vessel. But, aside from the correctness or incorrectness of the views thus expressed, I am persuaded that the direct legislation of Congress in the act upon which the libel of information in the present case is founded (Act of April 20, 1818, 3 U. S. Stats. at Large, 447) covers the subject matter of the present application, and is conclusive upon the question that the vessel, while held under seizure by process in favor of the United States for the violation of that statute, cannot be discharged on bail by order of a judge of the United States, under the authority of the common rules and practice of the Court. The third section of the act enacts that "if any person shall, within the limits of the United States, fit out and arm, or attempt to fit out and arm, or procure to be fitted out and armed, or shall knowingly be concerned in the furnishing, fitting out or arming of any ship or vessel, with intent that such ship or vessel shall be employed in the service of any foreign prince or State, or of any colony, district or people, to cruise or commit hostilities, against the subjects, citizens or property of any foreign prince or State, or of any colony, district or people with whom the United States are at peace," &c., &c., every such ship or vessel, with her tackle, apparel and furniture, together with all materials, arms, ammunition and stores which may have been procured for the building and equipment thereof, shall be forfeited. The amended libel avers as causes of forfeiture various violations of the third section of the act. The eighth section of the act provides that "in every case in which a vessel shall be fitted out and armed, or attempted to be fitted out and armed," "contrary to the provisions and prohibitions of this act," "it shall be lawful for the President of the United States, or such other person as he shall have empowered for that purpose, to employ such part of the land and naval forces of the United States, or of the militia thereof, for the purpose of taking possession of and detaining any such ship or vessel," "in order to the execution of the prohibitions and penalties of this act." The clear purport and intent of these provisions of the eighth section are, that the vessel whose forfeiture is claimed, through judicial proceedings, for an offence against the third section shall herself be detained, so that the forfeiture, which is the penalty imposed by the third section, may be enforced against her specifically in case of her condemnation. Such detention must continue, at least, until the Government has had a reasonable opportunity to bring the case to trial. To the suggestion of the hardship of the case to the claimants in case of an acquittal of the vessel on trial, the answer is that it is not improbable that the policy adopted by Congress, of holding the vessel in custody to secure the rigid inforcement of the neutrality laws would be considered by the Government as furnishing ground for making compensation for the loss and damage caused by an unwarranted prosecution. The application is overruled.

Wm. M. Evarts and Joseph H. Choate for claimants; Samuel G. Courtney for United States.

CONSTITUTION WATER.

STROUDSBURGH, Penn., Jan. 20, 1866.

Dr. Gregg:

DEAR SIR: I wish to inform you that I have been under the treatment of some of our best physicians for nearly two years, without receiving any benefit. I had lost all confidence, and I indulged in but little hope of a cure from any source. My disease was Dropsy, and my physicians told me that there was no cure for me. I was tapped some fifty times, and at the different operations about 1,200 pounds of water was removed.

I am happy to inform you that I have been completely restored to health by the use of Constitution Water.

I make this statement, hoping it may reach those persons who may be similarly afflicted.

Respectfully,
Mrs. MARGILL C. LEVANWAY.
